

LOVE LETTERS IN THE SKY?

High-flying jet aircraft attracted wide attention over Victoria between 1 and 2 p.m. Monday, making majestic circles marked by contrails which hung lazily high in the sky. Aircraft was thought to be interceptor from U.S. Air Force base near Tacoma.

Quipped an RCAF officer: "Perhaps he was tying love knots for his girl friend." Clear contrail pattern could be seen as far away as B.C. lower mainland. USAF jets are in air over this area constantly as part of duties with NORAD.

U.K. WARNED BY RUSSIA ON SUB BASES

LONDON (AP) — Moscow Radio warned today that an agreement giving Polaris-equipped U.S. nuclear submarines base facilities in Scotland is "fraught with the most serious consequences for Britain."

Under negotiations in Washington for several months, the agreement is expected to be announced in Parliament next month.

U.S. 'Spy' Confessed To Go Free

VIENNA (AP) — A young American teacher, convicted by a Soviet court as a spy, said today he pleaded guilty to espionage charges because the Russians told him he would get a light sentence.

Mark I. Kaminsky, 28, of near Niles, Mich., was sentenced Sept. 16 to seven years' imprisonment. The sentence was suspended and he was expelled from the Soviet Union, where he had been touring with a companion.

Kaminsky said he was not badly treated and his trial was carefully managed by the Russians.

"They gave me a lawyer," he said. "He was not of much assistance, but he cheered me up. He advised me to confess to the charge wholeheartedly and tell court I felt very remorseful. He stressed the part about 'remorseful' time and again."

'PEACE DELEGATION' COMING FROM RUSSIA

MOSCOW (UPI) — A 10-man Soviet "peace delegation" was en route to New York today, convinced that war is "not a fatal inevitability."

The delegation will take part in an official meeting of Russian and American public figures, the official Tass News Agency reported.

The meeting from Oct. 29 to Nov. 4 is being held on the initiative of Norman Cousins, chairman of the American Committee for a Sensible Nuclear Policy and editor of Saturday Review.

Tass said its purpose is to discuss problems of peaceful co-existence, disarmament, international co-operation and the strengthening of friendly relations between the Russian and American peoples.

De Gaulle Wins Vital Test Vote

Narrow Margin Proves Shock

PARIS (UPI)—The government today won the first round in a test of strength between Parliament and President Charles de Gaulle's two-year-old "strong-man" regime.

The National Assembly rejected, by 264 votes to 213, a motion calling for it to refuse discussion of the government's project for formation of an independent French nuclear striking force.

The margin, however, was far narrower than the government had hoped for. More than 50 deputies abstained from voting and a large section of the Independent (conservative) party deserted the government on the issue.

The result was a shock for the government. Political experts predicted that Prime Minister Michel Debre almost certainly would be forced to use the weapon of a confidence vote to win the final showdown expected in the early hours of Thursday.

The test vote was taken after former premier Paul Reynaud told the National Assembly he believes President Eisenhower will invite France to share American nuclear secrets after the presidential election Nov. 8.

FINANCIAL TROUBLE

French parliamentary leaders warned, however, that the government may be unable to afford President Charles de Gaulle's plan for a billion-dollar independent nuclear striking force.

Speaking in a critical debate on the government's plan, Reynaud said "there are good chances that we shall be admitted soon to the nuclear club."

"In my opinion," he said, "the decision will be taken by President Eisenhower after the Nov. 8 presidential election."

The Assembly first heard reports by its finance, defence and foreign affairs committees on the bill to give France a striking force equipped with French-built atomic bombers, rockets, nuclear bombs and warheads, rocket-firing warships and submarines.

STAY WITH WEST

Finance-committee spokesman Henri Dorey asked the government pointedly: "Are not the objectives of this project perhaps greater than our financial abilities?"

Joel le Theule, reporting for the defence committee, said his group favored a nuclear striking force. But he added that it doubted whether creation of such a force would allow France to maintain its present military commitments, particularly in Algeria.

Maurice Schumann, speaking for the foreign affairs committee, said his group — although split on the striking force project — agreed solidly on the need for France to remain loyal to the western alliance.

Green said he advocates the appointment of two additional committees to work with the committee of 10, which includes five members from the East and five from the West.

DISTINCTIVE DUTIES

One committee would engage in technical studies and could include members of the committee of 10, as well as other countries.

The other would be a "watch-dog" committee appointed by the 99-member UN disarmament commission but would not include members of the committee of 10.

Its role would be to give advice and review progress by the negotiating body.

In the brief interview, Green suggested Switzerland as a country which could well supply a chairman for the negotiating committee.

RAF BANDSMEN CONVERTED BY JEHOVAHITES

'Witnesses' Shed Uniforms

LONDON (AP)—Royal Air Force chiefs today ordered an inquiry into the conversion of members of an RAF band stationed in Singapore to the pacifist Jehovah's Witnesses sect.

Two airmen who recently were baptized in the sect are under arrest for refusing to wear their uniforms. The RAF is flying home two other young bandsmen to give their parents a chance to talk them out of joining the sect.

Air ministry officials said they understood about 10 members of the band, based at Singapore's Changi air base, have been converted.

A man and a woman are believed responsible for sparking the wave of religious fervor among the bandsmen. Singapore police are investigating the couple.

Clarinetists James Hacker and Colin Frechter, both 22, were to have been baptized Sunday. The RAF whisked them out of Singapore when cables from their parents failed to deter them. They were due to arrive in England today.

If their parents can persuade them against becoming Jehovah's Witnesses, they will be sent back to Singapore to talk to their comrades.

WIDOW FREED IN 'MUMMY' MURDER TRIAL

RUTHIN, Wales (Reuters)—Britain's "mummy in the cupboard" murder trial today ended in a dramatic acquittal for widow Sara Jane Harvey.

The judge ordered the jury to find the 66-year-old defendant not guilty of murdering Mrs. Frances Alice Knight, a lodger who disappeared 20 years ago.

But he sentenced her to 15 months' imprisonment on two charges of obtaining money due to the dead woman by pretending she was still alive.

Mrs. Knight's body, preserved like an Egyptian mummy by a draft of dry air, was found in a cupboard this year when Mrs. Harvey's son was redecorating her house.

The directed acquittal came after a key prosecution witness, biologist Dr. Alan Clift, fainted on the witness stand after testifying death was caused by a stocking found around the body's neck—but that it might have been suicide.

Church Hits French Policy

PARIS (UPI)—Roman Catholic prelates placed their weight today behind mounting nation-wide pressure on President de Gaulle to end the bitter six-year-old Algerian war.

In a solemn joint declaration calling for peace in Algeria, the French cardinals and archbishops condemned the recent manifesto by 121 French intellectuals urging troops in Algeria to desert.

But the prelates also denounced pointedly the tortures and atrocities alleged to have been committed by the French army in Algeria against Algerian Moslem rebels.

Last year he took a passenger 10,600 miles across the United States to California and back. The cost: $1,600.

Gold said in an interview that Mrs. Lillian Davies, who represents a Montreal book company, asked him if he would take her on a selling trip across the U.S. Mrs. Davies, a non-driver, wanted to visit about 30 libraries in 27 states.

NEW YORK — The supervisors at National Bureau of Standards were perplexed when one of its computers used to translate Russian into English kept recording the phrase "water goat" while translating a Russian engineering paper. WATERLOO, Ont. — A college house mother's refusal to let 26 girls go through a post-midnight fire drill stirred up controversy before the city council Monday night.

Mrs. Marianne Binhammer of Waterloo's Conrad Hall said she was trying to prevent a "burlesque show" in barring the girls from leaving the building in night attire when she found reporters and photographers waiting outside.

Mrs. Binhammer said she refused to allow her charges to evacuate the building because it would be in poor taste to have pictures of the girls "tangling" with boys from Willison Hall, the men's residence.

"I would sooner see them mixed with the boys than piled up in a stairway in the event of a real fire," said Fire Chief Clayton Baulk whose department was to have conducted the drill.

Proposal to Control Press 'Real Danger' to S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—The Star declares today that press freedom in South Africa is in very real danger.

The English-language evening newspaper which has the biggest circulation in South Africa adds: "If the South Africans lose their free press they lose their last opportunity to do anything more than follow blindly the leaders of the Nationalist party of Premier Hendrik Verwoerd into the darkness that lies ahead."

The Star comments on what English-language newspapers here have claimed is an increasing harassment of them and their editorial staffs by the Nationalist government police.

Specifically, The Star condemns a proposal by a prominent Nationalist party legislator, Dr. Carl de Wet, in a speech Monday night proposing the appointment of a press commissioner to determine whether South African newspapers publish true reports and punish those he considers are lying or distorting.

De Wet declared: "Certain newspapers, and specifically certain English-language newspapers, play a despicable and objectionable role in South Africa. We must never overlook such things."

He claimed that "abundant proof has been produced, both in Parliament and elsewhere, of false and mischievous reporting."

Questioned about de Wet's proposals for disciplining the press, a government spokesman said they were de Wet's own ideas and not government policy.

Nixon Plucking Away at U.S. Heartstrings

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Richard Nixon plucks the heartstrings of the American voter with all the skill of a concert maestro. He plays on freedom as though it were a fine violin giving out beautiful, vibrating music. But in Quemoy and Matsu he may have struck a chord that can have great international implications for war and peace.

Both Nixon and John Kennedy have expressed great desires for peace—but with a subtle difference. Kennedy, the Democratic leader, seems to have concluded the average American would rather have peace than war; that he would like to have the United States reach some understanding with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

He keeps emphasizing in this election campaign that he would like to try once again for a new summit meeting, after suitable ambassadorial negotiations. He suggests the Chinese offshore island of Quemoy and Matsu are not necessary for defence of Formosa and that attempts to hold them would lead to needless death for thousands of Americans.

Nixon seems to sense a different mood, one he hopes will pay rich dividends; an American mood of angered frustration, of impatience and restlessness at hearing that America is second best while witnessing the rise of communism just 90 miles off the Florida coastline.

The applause is loud and clear when Nixon says he won't make a "deal" with Khrushchev, that Khrushchev is not to be trusted; that he would defend Quemoy and Matsu; that he is against surrender.

Moreover, Nixon says he wants to "extend" freedom, rather than retreat—lines which again bring great applause. He slips quickly over qualifications that he would undertake this extension strictly by non-military means, leaving the great punch line that America must be strong militarily and economically—"to launch the offensive for freedom of the world."

Do the American voters understand the issue? Reporters travelling both with Kennedy and Nixon say the great majority do.

Some of them say Kennedy has struck the right note—that American mothers don't want their sons shedding blood on Quemoy-Matsu.

But among Nixon followers there is a feeling that many Americans won't accept any more insults and abuse from the Reds. They want something done about it. This is the mood Nixon is trying to exploit—a get-tough policy, perhaps a new brinkmanship policy skirting the edge of war.

Poll Chief Refuses Prediction

CHICAGO (CP)—Dr. George Gallup, who makes his living on polls, said Monday he wouldn't predict at this time who will win the U.S. presidency.

Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, said that the 1960 presidential election campaign has so many imponderables that he will be satisfied if his poll comes within four per cent of the election result.

Gallup said that because of a religious issue in the campaign and a lack of "great enthusiasm" for either candidate, no poll has any scientific basis for making a prediction.

Gallup conceded in a speech to the Inland Daily Press Association that the 1948 presidential election "has induced a certain caution into pollsters' thinking."

That year, contrary to the predictions of most pollsters including Gallup, Harry S. Truman returned to the White House by defeating Thomas E. Dewey.

SPECIAL FACTORS

Gallup said three factors make a special case of the contest between the Democratic candidate, Senator Kennedy, and the Republican nominee, Vice-President Nixon. They are:

1. The religious issue (Kennedy is a Roman Catholic) which, he said, "helps and hurts both candidates and the effect of which we can't determine."

2. Lack of great enthusiasm for either candidate.

3. The fact that presidents are elected by the electoral college and not by popular vote. The popular vote, as now polled, he said, is so evenly divided between the candidates in every section of the country that a small change either way could cause an unexpected landslide.

ROYAL SYMPATHY was expressed Monday by Denmark's Queen Ingrid as she bent for a talk with cerebral palsy victim Michael Delis of Brooklyn, during her visit to the Institute

Blunders Charged By Kennedy

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Senator Kennedy charged the Eisenhower administration today with blunders which, he said, cost the United States its inter-American leadership and opened the way for Communist infiltration.

The Democratic presidential candidate was opening an intensive day's campaigning in Florida—only 98 miles from Cuba where, he said, "the forces of alien tyranny have already found their way into the western hemisphere."

He called for a massive diplomatic-economic effort to rebuild the good neighbor system in the hemisphere. And he suggested a bilingual name: "Alianza para progreso—alianza para progreso."

Vice-President Nixon flies from western New York to Florida today for a clash with Senator Kennedy, a man he now calls a dangerous double-talker.

Both presidential candidates are to address the American Legion convention in Miami.

In Buffalo, N.Y., Nixon charged before an overflow crowd of about 25,000 that Kennedy, the Democratic candidate, is so "dangerously immature" he could turn the United States into a sitting duck for the Communists to push around.

"America has had enough of his double talk and doesn't want any more of it."

B.C. Indians 'Won't Starve'; Fairclough Planning Probe

CALGARY (CP)—The federal government will investigate immediately reports that Indians on Vancouver Island face starvation this winter, Canada's minister of citizenship and immigration said Monday.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough said she did not want to underestimate the situation, because the Indian unemployment problem is "very serious." But she discounted any possibility of actual hunger.

Mrs. Fairclough said several reservations in Canada have winter works projects planned. They pay the same percentage of costs as normal municipal-ties, using money from their band funds. She also discounted a statement that Indians of the Ohlanti band are prevented from taking fish from coastal waters. Indians could fish for food at any time as long as they applied for a permit so the privilege would not be abused, Mrs. Fairclough said.

In Victoria Monday night Saanich MLA John Tisdalle met six chiefs and seven Indian councilmen to discuss conditions facing Indians this winter on southern Vancouver Island.

They met in Chief Mungo

Martin's potlatch house in Thunderbird Park.

Chief John Albany, Songhees' Reserve, emphasized that Indians throughout the area will be facing a hard winter.

This is due largely to poor commercial fishing, a spearfishing ban and a June to November ban on commercial clam digging.

The situation is reflected in other Island Indian centres.

Chief Albany said fishing and clam digging were the main means of livelihood for most Indians. At one time, he said, there was an open season of clam digging.

The Rubble Pile

THE UNITED NATIONS IS once again faced with two disarmament proposals—a Communist plan and a Western plan—and finds itself almost exactly where it was last year.

Mr. Khrushchev still advocates his four-year abolish-all-arms program; the West has repeated in much the same form its earlier proposals for step-by-step disarmament, elimination of the means of mass destruction, and prohibiting the use of space for military purposes.

But, as last year, the two sides still are at odds regarding inspection and controls. The West still wants adequate assurance through inspection that disarmament is really taking place in any given country; Russia still argues that disarmament should come first, then talk about inspection.

There is no current solution to this stalemate, nor any indication that one will be forthcoming in the foreseeable future.

One new element has been introduced. Mr. Macmillan has formally recommended that a council of experts be set up to study the inspection and control problem. An earlier committee of this nature, formed to work out technical problems of detecting nuclear test explosions, had considerable success in reaching agreement between East and West. Mr. Macmillan no doubt hopes that a committee on the same scientific level might also have better luck than the political committees.

But countering this hopeful thought is the international atmosphere which Mr. Khrushchev has left behind him at New York. Last year he departed from American soil in a cloud of good neighborliness and the high hopes of Camp David. The outcome of this attitude was formation of the UN committee of ten nations to study disarmament at Geneva.

The Geneva talks collapsed when Communist delegates walked out in simulated anger. The Paris summit conference fell into ruins when the U-2 incident and Mr. Khrushchev's almost hysterical reaction to it made further contact impossible.

This time there is not even the optimism of the Camp David spirit. Mr. Khrushchev left for home vowing that the United Nations must approve his disarmament policies or there would be no co-operation from Russia; shouting threats that Russia was strong enough to look after its own interests; warning that when UN decisions go against Russia they will be ignored.

It is in this rubble pile of disarmament hopes that the United Nations now sits down to discuss the major problem of the day, the problem which the peoples of every nation wish to see settled as soon as possible—while it still is possible.

Buyers Will Pay More

A DECISION BY THE DEPARTMENT of national revenue to impose higher valuations on cars imported from Britain and Europe—thus increasing tariff or sales tax levies on them—means that Canadians will pay more for such cars after December 1.

But it means other things too. It means that behind the higher prices of the imported cars the prices of Canadian cars can be maintained or raised. It means that insofar as higher levies on imported cars result in decreased sales, the exporting countries will be less able to buy Canadian goods, since their purchasing power in Canadian currency will be reduced.

Particularly will this be so in the case of Britain, already hit by Canadian levies on textiles. For while British cars enjoy a preference over European cars, a higher selling price in Canada must reduce their sales to some extent. Already British trade interests are protesting and threatening retaliation.

The federal government, of course, is faced with the problem of furnishing protection to the automobile industry of this country, centered mainly in Ontario. By raising the prices of imports it will answer the demands of the automobile workers. But it will also anger automobile purchasers across the country. Therein lies Ottawa's dilemma.

Most restrictions on imports be the only answer to the problem? Is there no way, apart from subsidies, in which Canadian production costs can be brought into competitive alignment with overseas prices?

The department's decision has been made without waiting for a recommendation from the one-man royal commission now studying the Canadian automobile industry. The commission may come up with an answer to the major question, but apparently the Government believes that the Canadian consumer will patiently bear still another increase in costs. Perhaps a royal commission on the state of mind of the consumer might also be of benefit.

Into the Home Stretch

THE UNITED STATES PRESIDENTIAL election campaign now enters the final three weeks, with the pace and heat increasing and an odd swing to one particular facet of U.S. foreign policy as the crux of the debate between the two party leaders.

The issue of America's attitude to the defence of the off-shore islands of Quemoy and Matsu, thrown into prominence by the recent joint TV interview, reportedly has been selected by Mr. Nixon as his cause celebre for the final drive.

Mr. Kennedy was prepared to abandon the islands as basically unimportant to the defence of Formosa and indefensible in themselves. Mr. Nixon saw any evacuation as a retreat in the face of Communism—a first step which could be followed by others and to be carried out only in the light of immediate military necessity.

Although in the broad view a matter of essential principle is involved, the two candidates actually are not far apart on the point, and it would be ironic if the vast body of domestic and foreign problems were to be left to one side while the election was decided on the question of Quemoy and Matsu—involving a decision which may never come up during the next presidential term.

As a criterion, however, it is far more important than the question of which candidate appears better on the television screen—a question which it seemed for a time would be the chief interest of many U.S. voters.

One thing does emerge from the contest, quite apart from policy issues. The television debate appears to be as firmly installed in the United States electoral system as the electoral college itself. In the long run this may prove to be a more significant development in America's politics than the fate of Quemoy and Matsu.

'Lend Me Your Ears'

THE CITY COUNCIL HAS FOLLOWED the proper course in allowing a year's trial for a "speakers' corner" in Beacon Hill Park.

This is a gesture encouraging free speech—and carrying with it a responsibility on those given the opportunity to speak to see that they do not interfere in any way with the legitimate enjoyment of the park by others not concerned with speech-making.

There is no assurance, of course, that acquisition of a "speakers' corner" will in itself produce speakers worth listening to. Aspiring orators, nevertheless, now have a forum. It's up to them to attract their audiences. They will be subject to appropriate laws covering slander, obscenity and other vocal offences.

Conceivably the arrangement could add another entertaining feature to the Victoria scene—possibly a focal point for lively debate and a training ground for better public speaking.

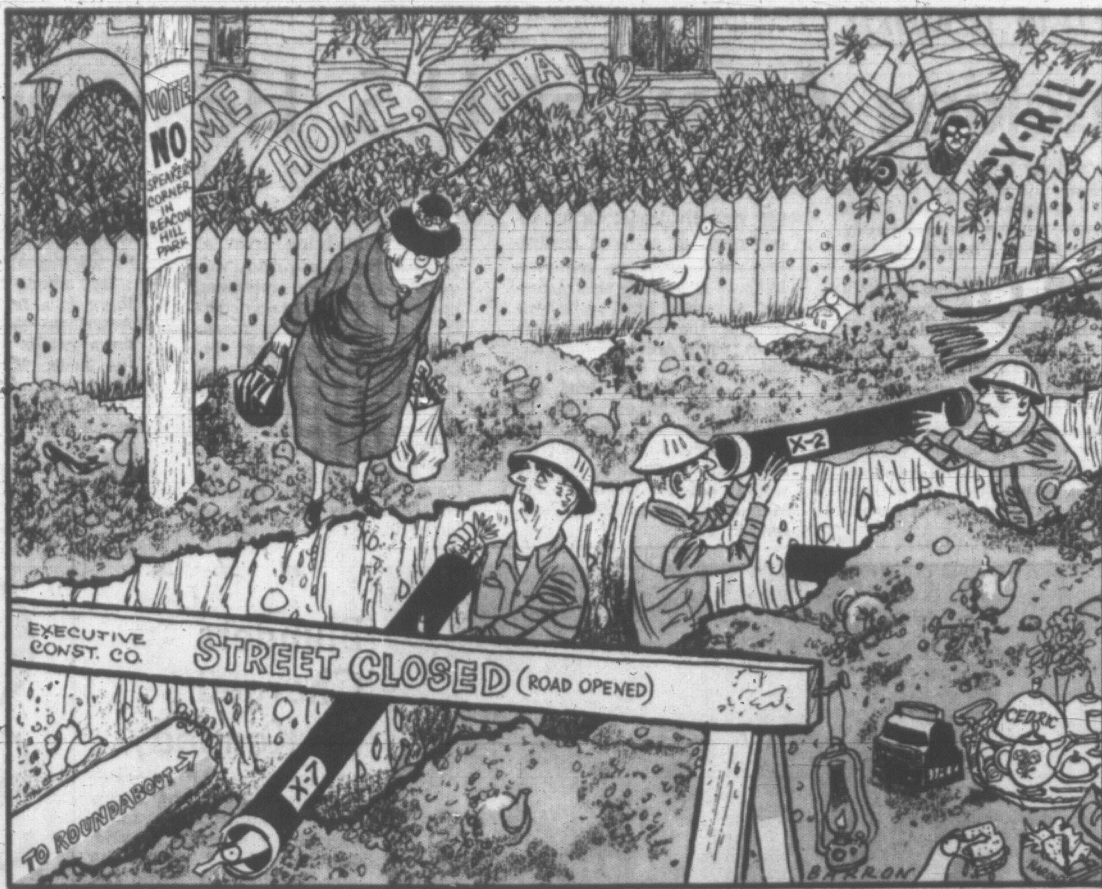

Why Not Licorice Popsicles?

MOST CANADIANS WILL find it difficult to understand the censure passed on Princess Margaret and her husband by the Lord's Day Observance Society for sucking ice sticks on Sunday.

They will hardly believe that the young couple committed a sin when they bought similar dainties for Prince Charles and Princess Anne during an outing in Windsor Park. This is scarcely riotous living.

Yet it is criticized in the society's journal which carries the improbable name of "Joy and Light."

No doubt, with traditional English snootiness, a compromise will be reached. In future we expect to read that members of the Royal Family will suck only licorice popsicles on Sunday—a nice, restrained and formal black that seems to represent the thinking of "Joy and Light."

LOOSE ENDS

For Disarmament, If Policed by the UN

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

LONDON — The British government thinks that immediate nuclear disarmament in the West would be as foolish as unilateral disarmament in the United Kingdom itself. Though ardently desiring an end of the atomic race, the government sees no possible short-cut or easy way to this objective. To abolish nuclear weapons before conventional military forces are reduced and a world armament inspection system established would be to put the cart before the horse and increase the risk of war or surrender.

Millions of Britons, many Canadians and possibly a majority of mankind may not agree with this view but it is the firm view and settled policy of the British government, as outlined by its spokesman to this reporter.

THE most dangerous thing the West could do, the spokesman said, would be to abandon its nuclear deterrent under any international agreement so long as Russia possesses overwhelming strength in conventional weapons. For it is the deterrent and nothing else that dissuades Russia from warlike adventures and maintains a balance of world power on a knife's edge, but still a balance.

"Hence," the spokesman explained, "arises our tireless insistence on phased disarmament, step by step, with atoms to be abolished in the end, not the beginning. Yet some people say we must abolish them at the beginning while Russia, being still heavily armed with conventional weapons, could then use them as a threat, and a decisive political weapon, everywhere."

Britain will resist the attractive course of quick nuclear disarmament even though it is popular among a minority of its own people, is the official policy of the French government and appeals to most of the unarmed neutral nations, some of them within the commonwealth.

Behind all Mr. Macmillan's frustrating conversations with Mr. Khrushchev stands the British insistence that the West's nuclear deterrent must be preserved until the threat of conventional weapons has been reduced, not just for the time being but forever.

It is doubtful that the Canadian people understand what Britain means by permanent disarmament, the core of British policy.

"It means," the spokesman said, "that everybody must accept an international inspections system not for any fixed period but forever, a system that won't change with governments or with public opinion in any nation. The commitment to this system must be inescapable everywhere."

Disarmament, thus inspected and policed, must entail, the spokesman said, an international force under the United Nations—a force heavily armed, possibly even with nuclear weapons of its own, and able to discipline any state that threatens to break the disarmament agreement.

In this respect British policy coincides exactly with that of Canada, as long advocated by Mr. Pearson and maintained by his successor, Mr. Green. But the British government does not expect to see an inspection force and all-powerful international policemen in a hurry. World government in the whole field of armament—for that is what the British policy means—must await profound changes in Russia's thinking, and China's also. Of such changes Britain does not despair in the long run but sees no sign of them in the short.

Meanwhile Britain not only supports the collective nuclear deterrent of the West, concentrated mainly in the United States, but maintains its own deterrent. As another dispatch will explain, Britain is able at this moment to drop its own nuclear bombs, from its own planes on the Communist states of Europe. And this power of retaliation from British bases is increasing all the time.

BUT under the present Conservative government (which seems likely to last a long time against a split and suicidal Labor opposition) Britain bases its defence primarily on NATO. It will remain a loyal and potent member of an alliance which the recent Labor party conference in effect repudiated by a narrow, rigged vote.

The government's spokesman flatly rejected the belief, widely held in the Canadian parliament, that NATO is falling to pieces.

"Don't believe that for a moment," he said. "NATO can take it. Of course it has many problems, these days but they are actually a sign of its strength. In the early days you dared not raise or discuss these problems for fear the whole thing would collapse. Now they can be raised and discussed because NATO is strong enough to face them."

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

'Chump of the Week'

May I nominate for "Chump of the Week" that teenager who was riding his bicycle on the sidewalk in front of Super-Service Garage, proceeding south on Blanshard at the speed of at least 25 mph—darting across Johnson Street in front of my car as I was making a right-hand turn from Blanshard onto Johnson, with the green traffic light in my favor. I barely missed his bicycle by inches, and as I was travelling at a rate of speed between 35 mph, I shudder to think what would have become of that boy had I been driving any faster.

I hope you will print this, Mr. Editor. Perhaps if he reads this he will die of a heart attack and some other motorist will be exonerated from a manslaughter or murder charge.

A SINCERE SUBSCRIBER.

By Their Own Efforts

It is right to say that Creation extends far beyond the limits of human nature, and certainly to include other worlds than ours. But it is an extravagance to claim that anyone knows the Creator to be omnipotent or all-wise especially in the light of endless human savagery and misery. Men have made their own rules for good government and a proper regard for scriptural commands such as "Do not steal" and "Be generous to the poor."

No one can say the Creator has a preference for any great problem such as complete free enterprise, or to take the alternate course of Communism as now advocated by the Russians. Long and usually painful sessions of international conferences would be quickly replaced if by inspiration or by silent prayer the will and pleasure of Almighty God could be determined at need.

All indications point to the fact that nations must of their own power seek release from the consequences of earlier wrongs such as perpetuating misrule. Clear as daylight is the fact that investment capital and reliable working people in America have together produced tolerable living conditions, capable of reconstruction, particularly as touching education and its costs.

Gratitude

The matron and members of board of management of Rose Manor wish to express their gratitude to citizens of Victoria who supported so enthusiastically their "Open House" (including tea and tour of the premises) by their presence and gifts of flowers, fruits, books and money. The sum of approx-mately $200 was received for the library project.

We might specially mention those of the clergy who attended, the Mother Superior of St. Joseph's Hospital, Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, members of the City Council, and the Press; to these and all citizens who cheerfully thronged the corridors, we say thank you for your interest and generosity.

Treatment of Veterans

I should like to echo the sentiments expressed by two of your correspondents who have recently criticized official action in respect of veterans' pensions and allowances.

One would almost think that the attitude in Ottawa savors more of the animus that one might entertain toward a defeated enemy than of gratitude toward those who had herded the Helms into the P.O.W. cages. Staff of the Department of Veterans' Affairs should be required to read, at least once a year, authentic accounts of the veritable hell endured for years by these old soldiers: a record of dogged endurance and courage through days upon days of prolonged mud and blood; of almost unbelievable tenacity exhibited amidst unspeakable conditions of misery, fear, horror and death! Civilian memory is all too short!

Could it be that today's politician feels that he is doing his sacred duty in skimming a few millions for this discarded gunfodder in order to provide billions for AVRO Arrows, Bomarcas, nuclear madness, and the new gunfodder that has to be lured by such rates of pay and emoluments that it can retire on fat pensions while still in the prime of life?

The whole business is crazy and utterly out of balance, and the old soldier has good cause to exercise his traditional right to grouse and to damn the injustice of the high brass!

Only One Khrushchev

By MAURICE WESTERN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—In watching the Soviet performance at the United Nations, in hotel lobbies and on the sidewalks of New York, one sometimes got the impression that there are two Mr. Khrushchevs—the blustering, challenging, argumentative Khrushchev of public forums and the very different, serious and businesslike Khrushchev of the Macmillan talks. But obviously there is only one Khrushchev and it would seem dangerous to attribute to erratic impulse all these apparent contradictions and reversals of behavior.

No doubt the Soviet leader is an impulsive man and probably something of a trial to a professional diplomat such as Andrei Gromyko. But he controls himself well enough when he thinks it necessary and there may be cool calculation behind some of these apparently erratic outbursts.

Without attempting to probe deeply into Soviet motivations (a perilous and not very rewarding pastime), it may be worth while to note that Mr. Khrushchev's behavior seems more intelligible if viewed against the background of his own criticisms of the United Nations.

Debating Forum

These criticisms support the view that he regards the United Nations primarily as a debating forum, a theatre in which the rival powers should meet on even ground to argue the merits of competing systems and to vie for influence with the uncommitted.

But he does not regard it as an organization competent to deal decisively with the great issues that he broaches in his conversations with Mr. Macmillan or with other statesmen of the great powers.

The contrast may perhaps be drawn in this way. In the West the United Nations is regarded as something more than the mere sum of its parts. It is, or ought to be, something of an independent force, capable (as at Suez) of imposing a collective will on the great powers.

But Mr. Khrushchev evidently does not share this view. For him the United Nations is the sum of the parts. It is, however, one of his grievances that the component parts no longer correspond, as they once did, to the forces in the world.

There ought, he thinks, to be a reshuffle to make the UN accurately reflect a world divided into three (east, west and neutrals) and all the organs, including the secretariat, should reflect this division.

It is of interest that none of the Communist states voted (or participated) in the divisions occasioned by the famous neutralist resolution. Mr. Khrushchev, no doubt, was happy to see the West in a thoroughly embarrassing situation. But he was quite as unwilling as the Americans to accept direction from the United Nations and was conspicuous by his absence when the neutralist proposal was being discussed.

Veto-Ridden

In his demand for a divided and veto-ridden secretariat, the Soviet leader bewildered many in his audience by his claim that this was the way to strengthen the United Nations. But from Mr. Khrushchev's Supreme Soviet approach, the argument is not entirely absurd.

Considered as a mere sounding board the Assembly might be the better if it did not attempt to assert a will of its own and to translate that will into action unacceptable to great powers.

If the Assembly is primarily a place for propaganda (for Mr. Macmillan or Mr. Eisenhower as much as for the Russians) there is no particular reason why the British prime minister, as a serious statesman, should take offence at Mr. Khrushchev's accusations or interruptions there.

In any event it is fact and not speculation that Mr. Khrushchev, emerging from the serious business of negotiations with Mr. Macmillan, disdained the audience awaiting him on the sidewalks outside the Waldorf-Astoria.

The man who had snatched so eagerly at every opportunity to win publicity was quite willing to leave to British officials the reporting of an important meeting. This happened twice. On the first occasion, Mr. Khrushchev had no comments at all. On the second, after a time lag, he confirmed the agreement about a 1961 summit which had been implicit in the cautious British statement.

Modified Threats

If Mr. Khrushchev's views about the United Nations are what they seem to be, his threats about a Communist pull-out need not be taken seriously. (Indeed, the Soviet leader took care to modify them in a subsequent address to the Assembly.)

value to the United Nations as a means of influencing people in the struggle of competitive co-existence.

But it is also obvious that these views are shared neither by most Western nations nor by the neutrals. (There are exceptions; Mr. de Gaulle condemns the United Nations for the very activities which give it value in Russian eyes.)

This means that the West retains a very considerable advantage in the Assembly; on the fundamental issue of the role of the world organization, the neutrals are out of sympathy with Mr. Khrushchev.

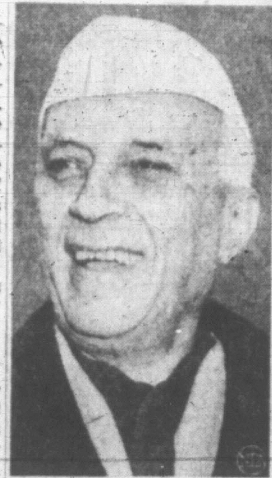

The situation, however, is not stable. If the uncommitted countries become disillusioned with the world organization, some of them would certainly be susceptible to the flattering Soviet argument that there ought to be a greater reorganization according to their stronger representation at all levels and the larger role which, Mr. Khrushchev says, they rightly deserve. The proceedings of the 15th Assembly strongly suggest that there is now great risk in Western policies—or tactics—which alienate or needlessly affront the emerging bloc of neutral states.

FEAR VOICED SOVIETS MAY WALK OUT OF UN

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru has expressed fears that a situation might arise when Russia would walk out of the United Nations, the Hindustan Times says today.

Nehru conveyed this impression to the cabinet and the foreign ministry after his return from the UN General Assembly session, the Times says.

Considered to be close to the Nehru government and the governing Congress party, the Times says Nehru is aware of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's "exasperation at the procedural muddle into which the world organization has slipped."

Russia Shipping Aid To Algeria Refugees

LONDON (Reuters)—The Soviet freighter Fatezh sailed from Odessa today for Tunis with aid from Soviet labor unions for Algerian refugees in Morocco and Tunis, the Soviet news agency Tass reported. The gifts included tractors, cars, machine tools, food, clothing and 2,000,000 rubles ($500,000).

Envoy to Red China

HAVANA (AP)—The Cuban government today named Oscar Pino Santos, left-wing former economic writer for the semi-official newspaper Revolution, as the country's first ambassador to Communist China.

giving the impression that there was a "reasonable response" Russia might boycott the United Nations.

The Times quotes Nehru as calling UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld "a great Western Liberal" whom he held in "high esteem for his personal integrity and impartiality."

But Nehru felt the high office of secretary-general "no longer honorific but one faced with increasing responsibilities" which necessitated readjustments.

Nehru disagreed with Khrushchev's proposal for a triumvirate to replace the secretary-general but said a body of counsellors representing a cross-section of the United Nations could be set up to advise its chief executive.

The Times quotes Nehru as saying this readjustment might satisfy Khrushchev.

A foreign office spokesman declined to comment on the report.

The Kid in the Empty House

WHEN the kids were little we came to look forward to a regular lunch hour routine. They'd stream home from school, usually running the last few yards to be first in the house.

Stott

As each small foot hit the bottom step outside, a young voice would lift, a little breathlessly, to tell the news of the day. "Mummy, it would start, and then would follow the tale of triumph or disaster that had unfolded in the schoolyard or class.

When the narrator finally burst through the door Pat would say, "Alright, now let's start over at the beginning. You were outside when you were talking and we couldn't hear."

So the whole story would be repeated and we would pass judgment, offer praise, sometimes sympathy and occasionally censure when we figured the youngsters had been a little twisted in their reaction to events.

Having the kids retell the story which started just off the street and was in full flow by the time they were inside had little effect in checking the premature spate of words. Next day each would be talking to us as soon as the small foot hit the first step outside again.

"It's the same in the afternoon," Pat explained. "They're halfway through what they have to say before they reach the door."

On the odd day when Pat was out and I was in, the routine was slightly varied. A moppet would push open the door, talking, stop a little startled and ask "Where's Mummy?"

The whole scheme of things seemed to be upset when a sympathetic maternal ear was not immediately available to receive the news, when a maternal voice was not present to reconcile the injustice of a youngster not being picked for the hockey team, or to offer restrained praise for a good mark on an assignment. The kids seemed to need that audience and counsel.

The experience came to mind the other evening while a highly competent principal was reporting on an interesting survey conducted in his school. For the last four years he has been checking behavior incidents among his pupils against home conditions in which both parents are either working, or away from home most of the day.

He had no 1960 figures, but by last year the number of parents of his pupils in that category had risen from a little over 31 per cent to a little over 38 per cent since 1956.

He listed all the instances in which disciplinary action had been taken against all students in the school and checked the number of incidents in which children of the 31 to 38 per cent of working parents were involved. Then he turned his figures over to a statistician.

The statistician applied the scientific principles of the craft to the figures and came up with a report on what is called statistically significant difference in behavior varying from the accepted conduct of school children.

Among children whose parents were away from home most of the day there were far more cases of tardiness in getting to school.

There were far more occasions on which the children had to be interviewed by the teachers and counsellors because they had problems. There were far more detentions—a form of discipline imposed for unacceptable school behavior. And there were far more cases of "under-achievement." That means that the child involved was not doing the work of which he was capable.

There was no greater record of absences from school among the group. In fact, the trend seemed the other way. Children whose parents left home in the morning and returned after work were usually more inclined to come to school, because the home was empty, than were others when they felt mildly unwell.

Nor were there sufficient figures to show that the 31 to 38 per cent were guilty of more serious misdemeanors than other children.

The principal readily admitted that the absence of parents from the home was not the only explanation which could be offered for the problems their children encountered. He agreed, also, with another teacher that the child from the daytime-empty house might develop extraordinary self-reliance.

At the same time, there were the figures compiled at his school. And, in my own mind, was the memory of the dependence our youngsters used to place on a receptive maternal ear as soon as they reached home from class.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

So Beautiful, So Hard to Grow

Everyone loves the rich blue trumpets of the gentians, yet many of us have difficulty in growing them.

Hilda

Some species are easier than others, and among the most popular on this account are Gentiana acaulis (spring flowers) and G. macaulayii (fall).

Many gardeners do not agree on points of culture with this plant, particularly the spring flowering acaulis.

In some gardens it thrives; in others, no amount of suitable soil will induce it to flower.

The general cultural hints are for sunshine, well-drained gritty loam with a little leaf-mould added. Water is essential during the growing and flowering period—that is, during spring and summer. Fall and winter rains will of course be supplied by nature in this area, and means must be provided to prevent it from damaging the plants.

I had little success with G. acaulis until I saw it growing in huge clumps at the side of a gravel driveway on Beach Drive. The small stones were pushed around the leaves for the depth of at least an inch, yet flowers and new growth were apparent in abundance.

It seemed that the hard-packed drive had been scooped out until softer soil was reached, and then the hole was filled with gritty loam and leafmould. Into this mixture went the gentian, and an inch of the smaller gravel pushed close around the stems and leaves.

Since then I have followed the practice of gently pushing small stones around the plants. The stones are about the size of dried peas, and they prevent the moist soil from settling around the fleshy leaves and stems. If damp soil is constantly in contact, rot seems to set in and flower buds fail to develop.

A little experimenting is worth while to gain success with so lovely a flower. As if to contradict all other prescribed methods of culture, one of the healthiest batches of G. acaulis I ever saw were in a long row on the shady side of a row of sweet corn in well-tilled soil!

So, you see why I'm willing to experiment with plants.

Stiffer Fines On Licence Infractions

Penalty for drivers fined for violation of driver's licence restrictions will increase if cases continue to mount, Magistrate William Ostler warned in city police court Monday.

Five people were fined from $10 to $25 when they pleaded guilty to licence violations Monday.

They were John James Tippet, 976 Runnymede, $15; Daniel Wernsen, 1921 Chambers, $10; John Robert Aasen Jr., 1924 Birch, $25; Michael Thomas Coppinger, 4845 West Saanich, $25; Thomas Lindstrom, 2114 Neil, $25.

"If these cases continue to come up, the penalty is going to have to be increased," Mr. Ostler said.

"You are simply not taking this matter seriously," he added.

Toronto, New York Both Show Losses

Losses were registered on both the Toronto and New York stock markets today. Light trading was the order.

In late trading at Toronto, Ford of Canada took a severe drop—four points at 121—to lead industrials lower. Dominion Stores were off 1½ at 60½, and Dominion Food, Mexican Light and Pointon Glass all lost a point. The decline on Wall Street affected most major groupings, although utilities gave ground grudgingly and many of those issues were unchanged.

Reporting lower third-quarter earnings, Westinghouse Electric dropped a full point.

AT NEW YORK Domestic Mines, International Nickel and McIntyre Porcupine all added ¼ on the Canadian list. Aluminum Ltd. was off ¼. On a lower American exchange Canadian Marconi and Shawinigan dropped ¼ each.

AT MONTREAL prices continued to drop on the stock exchange amid light trading today.

AT LONDON unsettled conditions on the stock exchange today reflected current uncertainties in the consumer and durable goods trades and fading hopes of an early relaxation in the credit squeeze.

Some leading industrials rallied after losing ground earlier in the session, but the general appearance was irregular.

Gold shares were steadier; copper shares were quiet and undecided but tin shares eased.

Oils opened dull, then rallied.

AT VANCOUVER prices were off on a varying market during the morning. A.P. Con. moved 39,800 at 60. Canam Copper traded 11,000 at 18.

Cold Lake Pipe sold 500 at $3.15. Caribou moved 1,200 at 90. Quatsino traded 3,000 at 14. Trojan moved 5,000 at 7c.

Market men did not know where the demand was coming from—whether from central banks or private sources.

Gold Price Hits High at London

LONDON (Reuters)—The price of gold in London today jumped to $35.50 an ounce, the highest price since the reopening of the London gold market in 1954 and a record premium over the official U.S. selling price of $35.05.

Market men did not know where the demand was coming from—whether from central banks or private sources.

Industries Must Hunt Business

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Canada won't hold her place as the fourth trading country of the world if her industries don't go after business in other countries, Leslie Brown, assistant deputy minister of trade and commerce, says.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Canadian Exporters' Association, Mr. Brown joined other speakers—department officials accompanying him and exporters—in outlining prospects for increased export sales.

R. D. L. Kinsman—who Monday was elected for his second year as association president—declared: "Let us pack our briefcases with samples or blueprints; pack our heads with heads; find the prospect, study his requirements, knock on his door and meet him across the desk."

Mr. Brown said: "Education of the Canadian manufacturer is the basic problem. Many of them seem to shy away from exports from some sort of fear of the unknown."

G. A. Browne, chief of the U.S. division, department of trade and commerce, said Canadian exporters are bound to find access to the U.S. market improved for a variety of Canadian products.

LOADINGS and unloadings in the foreign services increased in the January-June period to 35,029,000 tons from 31,520,700 a year earlier. Coastal freight climbed to 29,984,800 tons from 26,380,000.

Greatest volume of coastwise shipping was in pulpwood, wheat and oil. Decreases in wheat, iron and coal were offset largely by increases in pulpwood, logs and oils.

In June, the port of Vancouver handled 1,242,600 tons of freight compared with 1,203,200 in June, 1959.

Labor Gets Warning On Wages

VANCOUVER (CP)—A B.C. manufacturer said Monday labor must accept wage restraints on hard-pressed industry and accept their share of responsibility for expansion.

Harvey McDiarmid, chairman of the B.C. division, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, told the western division, Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy convention the province's future expansion depends on a healthy secondary industry.

He urged Canadian manufacturers to "clean up their own back yards" in order to help improve the competitive position of Canada's secondary industry.

Mr. McDiarmid said primary production cannot absorb manpower. Even with the development of hydro power and oil, he said, "these fields will not give us anything like full employment."

Industry must be willing to get together and combine manufacturing facilities, he said, following changes in combines legislation.

Mr. McDiarmid advocated better management techniques, an increase in advanced mechanization and automation and a willingness to enter new fields and explore new markets.

Railway Income Shows Sharp Drop

OTTAWA (CP)—Net operating income for Canadian railways in July was almost $400,000 lower than in July, 1959, the bureau of statistics has reported.

It said net income dropped to $3,495,000 in July, compared with $3,895,000 a year earlier.

Operating revenues fell 9.1 per cent to $97,859,000 from $107,684,900.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Export demand for Canadian flax and feed commodities was quiet today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as most prices followed a hesitant trend.

Flax trade appeared moderate with some buying for United States accounts. Prices had occasional easy tones, with declines due to lack of aggressive commercial demand.

Oats and barley trade displayed ease in domestic business. The rye market followed a similar pattern. Feed grain prices moved narrowly.

Buying was hesitant. Larger movements of grain from the Lakehead to eastern ports were a factor.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat all were up ¼ from Monday.

LUMBERMAN BLAMES IWA

'Disaster' On Horizon

DUNCAN—The forest industry is headed for disaster if the IWA continues to press demands for higher wages and a guaranteed annual wage in the face of existing economic conditions, Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce was told Monday.

Brian Gattie, Vancouver, general manager of Western Forest Industries Ltd. and chairman for the past two years of Forest Industrial Relations, said there are only two things which would permit the industry to survive: Higher selling prices for its products or lower operational costs.

The industry had no control over prices but costs could be reduced through faster, better and cheaper productivity. However, he added that the latter could only come about as the result of better union leadership.

Mr. Gattie painted a bleak picture of the forest industry today.

"There is no uniform pattern for prosperity," he said. Pulp, plywood, lumber and shingles are the backbone of the industry, "but, prosperity ends after pulp."

80% CAPACITY

If it were not for the revenue from chips, most sawmills in the province would be operating at a loss. Plywood mills can expect at best about 80 per cent capacity this winter, while shingle mills, he predicted, are on their last legs.

Propaganda from the unions blazes huge profits of the forest industry, "but they never tell you how and when these profits were made. Profits of a fully-integrated company give entirely the wrong impression of the other half of the industry that produces lumber products only. There are very few mills or plywood plants making money today."

PROFITS SINFUL?

"Outlandish" union demands have seen sensible profits whittle away, Mr. Gattie said. "Why on earth is it such a sin to make a profit anyway," he asked. "A profit of $1 million for a big company with a $100 million invested is hopelessly inadequate."

He charged that the "preposterous demands" by unions without any regard for economic conditions were made by irresponsible leaders who had to justify their own existence.

"They are completely oblivious of the industries first cost

Old Cemetery Rededicated At Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Solemn rededication of Nanaimo's first cemetery, established 110 years ago, re-landscaped and tidied into an attractive park by the Kiwanis Club as a centennial project, drew a crowd of 150 persons to the site Sunday.

It was the culmination of two years of work.

Speakers were Recreation Minister Earle Westwood who paid homage to pioneers, Kiwanis President David Hurn, Mayor Pete Maffeo and Ald. John Cook.

A prayer was offered by Rev. William Van Druten, president of the Nanaimo Ministerial Association, and the Salvation Army Band was conducted by Capt. Charles Smith.

OLDEST CITIZEN

Present at the ceremony was "Billy" Lewis, 97, oldest citizen with continuous residence in Nanaimo.

His parents are buried in the cemetery.

Among other prominent early citizens buried there is Dr. Klein Grant who died in 1873. He was once editor of the British medical journal Lancet.

DOZING DRIVER FINED AFTER FALL FROM CAR

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—A Duncan man, Robert Bohn, 26, who fell from his speeding car while dozing, was fined $50 for careless driving when he appeared in court Monday.

The car travelled a half-mile on its own before winding up in a ditch.

Bohn suffered skinned hand and friction burns on his back. He said the car was travelling about 60 m.p.h. when he dozed, leaned against the car's door latch and fell out.

He chased his car down the highway until the vehicle shuddered to a halt in the ditch.

Man Missing Three Weeks

NANAIMO—Extensive police inquiries are under way into the mysterious disappearance three weeks ago of Pacific Biological Station employee Len Quickenden, 57, who left his Nanaimo home to go shopping and never returned.

RCMP today said there was "a possibility" of amnesia.

The man was described as "a dependable character. Very stable."

However, he had recently suffered headaches and had been under doctor's care.

CAR AT DOCK

His car was found parked near the Nanaimo ferry dock.

Quickenden, married with one son, was described as bald except for a fringe of grey hair, 180 pounds, five feet nine inches, fairly stout and wearing a blue car coat.

ENGINEER KILLED BY CAR

A 35-year-old Dutch engineer off the British freighter Amberton berthed at Port Alberni, was killed Monday night when struck by a car driven by a juvenile on Stamp Avenue near the mill.

The victim's name is being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

RCMP said the man was in the middle of the street when hit and was killed immediately.

The accident took place at about 10:30 p.m.

Inquest opened at 11 a.m. today to view the body and was then adjourned to next week.

Salary Talks

DUNCAN—School board and teachers will meet here tonight at 8 to negotiate 1961 teacher salaries.

Involved are members of the Cowichan District Teachers' Association.

TEE TOPICS

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Principles don't hold much water except, perhaps, to a politician only at election time. And human pride can be a useless thing because there is always something lying in wait to take the wind out of it.

But it has to be principles or pride that prevent some of our senior golfing citizens from following etiquette.

This is a sore point with many of the better golfers: The elderly foursome that never strays from the centre of the fairway and always takes its time to putt out. Yet, because they have not sliced into the woods and lost a ball, the seniors refuse to allow faster players to go through.

This is not meant to fault the golfing elders. Indeed, some move with the breezes but they are shamed because of a thoughtless few.

Humorously, there is the other side.

The best example is the husband and wife that allowed a trio of leftovers from the Times' Thursday Tea League to go ahead on the 15th tee.

The terrible but fast-moving threesome had raced after the hubby and spouse for five holes. The race ended about the 14th when the threesome caught up to a slow-moving, all-male foursome... the plod-plod-plod-but-never-lost type.

The husband and wife certainly weren't holding up anybody, but because the woman wasn't able to belt 'em 200 yards—and because of an apparent overdose of etiquette—the threesome waved the Times' trio through.

It was a nice gesture but it didn't speed up matters. The foursome, followed by the threesome and then the twosome, plod-plod-plodded all the way home.

The Victoria District Golf Committee's open buttons stayed on the same lapels but the junior pins were being sported on other coats this week.

Oak Bay's Laurie Carroll and Dr. George Bigelow, combining well for a best-ball, five-under-par 65, defeated challengers Fred Painter and Watson Finley of Gorge Vale, 5 and 3.

Carroll had an individual round of 68, while the divoting doctor posted a one-under 69. They finished off the challengers by firing a string of four threes, including an eagle on the par-five 14th.

Carroll and Bigelow now meet another pair of Gorge challengers, Art Donaldson and Johnny Merriman, on the Oak Bay links this Sunday.

Uplands' Brian Weatherhead and Pete Gillan gave up the junior buttons in their first defence, losing 2 and 1 to Gorge Vale's Bill Wakeham and Al MacLeod. Wakeham's two-under 68 topped the juniors.

B.C. Amateur king Laurie Kerr claimed the Colwood club title Sunday, coming from behind on the final round to defeat George Andrews 2 and 1 in their 36-hole final.

Andrews, who beat Vic Painter 1 up on Saturday in a delayed semifinal match, was 2 up after Sunday's morning round. George scored a three-over 73 in the morning and chopped another stroke off that in the afternoon but could not match Kerr's finishing kick.

Kerr, making the tour in 75 blows in the morning, finished the final 18 holes in one-under-par figures. All square after 27, Kerr went ahead with a birdie four on the 14th and wrapped it up with another bird on the 16th.

SHORT CHIPS: Doug Munro cracked the hole-in-one club Sunday, hitting Oak Bay's 13th green for an ace while playing in a foursome with Al Manson, Cliff Horwood and Alex McCabe. Lionel Morrison and Keith Olson both finished two up on par to walk off with the birds in Oak Bay's weekly turkey competition Saturday. Bob-Mason, carding 96-26-70, captured the Wilson Trophy at Colwood.

President Doug Willard's team upset Captain Gord Pelow's "hand-picked crew" in the annual Uplands team battle. Fred Groome, 83-16-67, captured the Carmichael Cup at Gorge Vale. Runner-up was Earl Francis, 79-11-68, while Art Donaldson took low gross honors with a 71.

Pittsburgh Guard In Good Condition

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Guard Mike McGee of St. Louis Cardinals remained in hospital Monday after being injured before the Pittsburgh-St. Louis National Football League game Sunday.

Hospital attendants said McGee is in good condition.

McGee and a teammate collided while the Cards were warming up. McGee apparently swallowed his tongue and suffered a cerebral concussion with convulsions.

in the Inter-High Junior Soccer League Monday with a spirited 3-1 win over Victoria High.

The Oak Bay attack was paced by the three-goal performance of Bill Wilcox. Nurnal Dillon scored Vic High's first goal of the season on a penalty kick.

It marked the second loss in as many games for the defending champs.

In another game played at Esquimalt, Mount Douglas and Esquimalt battled to a scoreless draw.

How they stand:

Youthful Skaters Must Rise Early

Wednesday and Thursday won't be mornings for city puckchasers between the ages of 14 and 18 to sleep in.

Those are the mornings that players hoping to play in midget and juvenile divisions of the Victoria Minor Hockey Association must register at Memorial Arena. Midgets (14 to 16) sign up Wednesday and juveniles (16 to 18) have their turn on Thursday.

Registrations on both days are between 7 and 8 a.m. and players are requested to bring skates, sticks and gloves.

Registrations for players under 21 is slated for Thursday at 7 p.m.

HOCKEY PRACTICE

Independents of the Commercial Hockey League will work out at Memorial Arena tonight immediately following the Western Pro League game.

NL Grants Franchises To Houston, New York

CHICAGO (AP)—The Associated Press learned today that the American League will not immediately follow the example set Monday by the National League when it committed itself to becoming a 10-team league in 1962 by granting franchises to Houston and New York City.

Instead, the American League will devote most of the business at its meeting, scheduled for Oct. 26 in New York, to settling its realignment problem.

A source close to Del Webb, head of the league's expansion committee, said the co-owner of New York Yankees was "gravely concerned" over such problem cities as Kansas City, Washington and Cleveland.

"I think the American League might have to straighten out its realignment problem before it can take definite and positive steps on expansion," said the source.

These were seen as possible moves or factors involved:

1. Shifting of the Washington franchise to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

2. The desire of Hank Greenberg, part owner of the Chicago White Sox, to obtain a franchise in Washington.

3. The possibility of the Kansas City franchise being moved to Los Angeles.

"And don't overlook the possibility of the Cleveland club being moved elsewhere," added the informant.

The American League, at its last meeting in New York Aug. 30, voted to expand to 10 teams no later than Dec. 1, 1961, but did not discuss any new teams.

It is known that several American League owners want to move to Los Angeles at once, especially if New York returns to the National League.

The National's latest move—the addition of Houston, with its 1,000,000 population and the return to New York with a population of 8,000,000 people—has made the Los Angeles faction more determined than ever.

Dodger owner Walter O'Malley, who must approve of an AL franchise in his Los Angeles territory, said he would not oppose such a move, but he added he "didn't think it would be a smart move at this time."

"I believe the American League eventually will go to the coast," he said, "but there are other fine cities such as San Diego and Seattle. Seattle is a wonderful place for major league ball."

Clockwork Mill Operation 'Didn't Happen Overnight'

By DON INGHAM
B.C. Forest Products Ltd. strutted its stuff Monday for the current National Forest Products Week Oct. 16-22 by taking a party of Victoria press, radio and television reporters through its local sawmill and plywood plant.

The two mills constitute the showpiece of the wood products industry in Victoria, and it's quite a showpiece. It is the district's largest employer next to the provincial and federal governments, its fine sawmill is up-to-date and has a production record second to none, and its plywood mill turns out a product that is classed as simply the best available anywhere in the world.

FINE CREW
This excellent standing in the industry has been achieved by hard work, careful planning, and a superior crew, which personnel superintendent Marc Close calls "exceptional."

Most of the 900 employees have been trained on the job at the local mill, and have become part of a smooth-working team.

"We didn't become a mill like this overnight," said Norman F. Johnson, production control supervisor for the company. "We just keep improving steadily, and try constantly to get more and more wrinkles out of the operation."

SAFETY FIRST
The company boasts that it has done all this with a safety record that is second to only one other wood products plant in North America.

"By Nov. 22 we will have gone two full years without an accident," Mr. Close said. "Already we have any number of records. I have only heard of one firm—in the United States—that is better, and I haven't been able to find out which one it is. We think ours is the best of all."

Manager of the sawmill division, which operates as a separate division from the plywood mill, is H. "Bert" Barnes, one of Victoria's best known lumbermen. Plywood boss is Rex Humphreys.

This company did not have to make any extra concessions to the public when National Forest Products Week was proclaimed.

The year around it observes every Wednesday as visitors' day, when conducted tours, open to anyone and everyone, leave from the personnel office of the Gorge Road headquarters at 2 p.m.

Last year 1,500 Victorians and visitors signed the company's register. All saw everything the mill had to offer, and left with a much clearer idea of the scope and importance of this plant to the city and district, and to the industry as a whole in B.C.

MORE STORES TO INTEGRATE

NEW YORK (AP)—Four leading variety chain stores announced Monday that their luncheon facilities in 112 cities in the southern U.S. have been integrated.

They said they were "conscious of a great social change occurring in the United States which has been dramatized by the student sit-in movement."

They said they reached their integration decision after conferences with government, state and local authorities and other interested groups.

'DIRTY WEATHER BOAT' CARRIES MESSAGE

Christian Gentlemen at the Helm

By TONY DICKASON
A "dirty weather boat" pulled out of Victoria Monday night, bound for remote light houses up the Island's inside passage and isolated islands. She's the Messenger III of the Shantymen's Christian Association, carrying two dedicated men who not only run the 19-tonner skillfully, but carry the Christian message to individuals or small communities where they tie up.

On the inside of the wheelhouse door is a plaque which summarizes the faith these men have, both ashore and afloat:

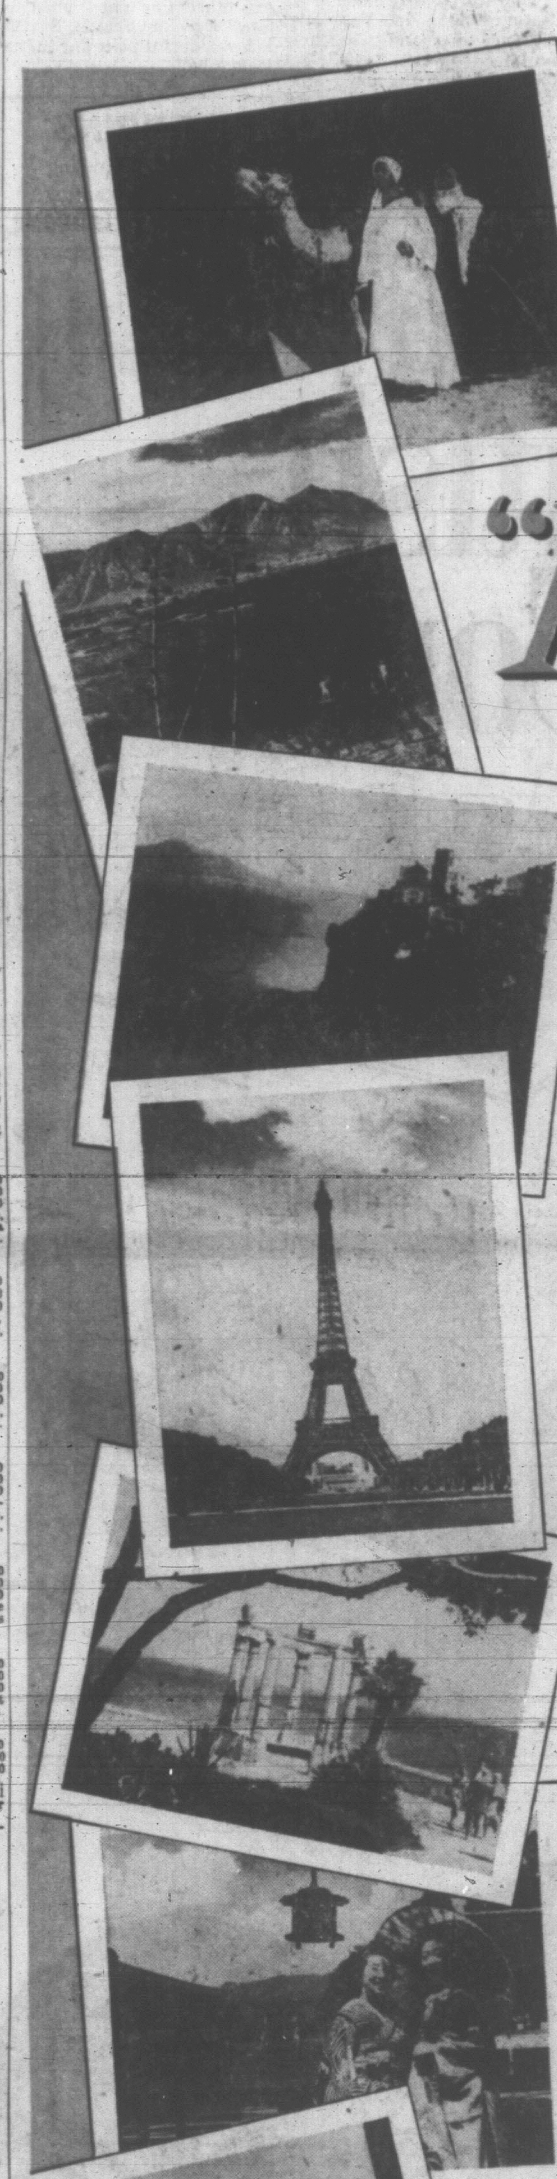

It reads: "And The Lord Shall Guide Thee Conspicuously," Isaiah 58:11. The Shantymen's Association is an "absolutely independent" set-up, otherwise work of the men would be "circumscribed," according to Mr. Wills: 30 years with the organization.

This summer Messenger III logged 12,000 miles! The life is not easy. Messenger II went down in 1948 with the loss of one life. Dieu-donne sank in 1938.

Messenger III itself had a close call a few months ago between Cape Cod and Quatsino Sound. A stern sea swept everything off top-side. Any success in the missionary ventures?

Mr. Wills said "definitely yes." In one logging camp alone, "where they warned us not even to go in 30 years ago, has since then given five full-time workers for the Master's service." Of the loggers and fishermen in the far-flung camps, Mr. Wills said, "you know where you stand with them. Folks in the cities are not this way. They smile but you don't know what's behind the smile. The people we deal with are not superficial."

Two Shoot Rapids

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men told Monday how they shot the violent Hells Gate Rapids on the Fraser River Sunday in a patched-up rubber raft.

Owen Richards, 32, of North Vancouver and George Tocher, 33, of West Vancouver said they made the wild ride over the treacherous rapids in a 10-by-five-foot rubber raft, covered with patches and once rejected by the air force as unfit for issue.

"As a matter of fact," said Richards, "the raft kind of looks like a patchwork quilt. But it served its purpose."

Both men wore skindiving suits during the trip. Tocher suffered a cut lip when he tumbled out of the raft into the swirling waters under the bridge crossing Hells Gate and was slammed in the face by one of their oars.

He said he was able to hold on to the raft and scrambled back aboard minutes later.

Richards and Tocher said they conceived the idea of tackling the rapids about five years ago.

"That's when he first saw it," Richards said. "We both believed it was navigable and have thought about it since. A couple of weeks ago, we got tired of talking about it and decided to do it."

They joined two others known to have made the trip and lived—North Bend prospector William Desiak did it in a home-made boat in 1953, and French frogman Louis Lournais did it in a skindiving suit two years ago.

URANIUM MACHINES FOR $2,308

BONN (AP)—A leading West German nuclear scientist says the day is approaching for uranium refining machines costing about the same as an automobile.

The West German government a few days ago moved to hang the secret label on the patent for the gas-centrifuge method of refining uranium developed by professor Wilhelm Groth. The move was taken at the request of the United States, which fears lest atomic weapons get into the hands of irresponsible small governments.

Groth, director of physical chemistry at Bonn University, said in an interview that it will take at least one year, probably two, before the instrument is developed enough to be used for commercial purposes.

Groth said two-thirds of the cost of the operation of a centrifuge involved the raw materials. Electrical energy takes up the remaining third.

The greatest money-saving the centrifuge method has over the accepted diffusion procedure now used lies in the installation.

The centrifuge is used to separate uranium 235 from the heavier isotope U-238. U-235 is used as fuel in nuclear reactors.

Both methods begin after the uranium ore has been reduced to gas. In the centrifuge method the gas is whirled about at enormous speeds, isolating the richer U-235 much as wheat is isolated from chaff.

In the diffusion method, the gas is pressed through tiny holes by the force of electrically produced thermal energy. This must be repeated many times to produce U-235 rich enough to be used as fuel in nuclear weapons.

STORY IDEAS EVERYWHERE AUTHORS TOLD

Ideas for stories are everywhere, free lance writer Harry McKeevor told the Victoria and Islands branch of the Canadian Authors' Association at its recent October meeting in the Douglas Building.

Mr. McKeevor, who works for the provincial government, told of a recent vacation trip he had made which turned into a busman's holiday as ideas for stories popped up all along the way.

"Don't get in the habit of regarding all your friends and acquaintances as potential cheques," he warned, "but do keep your eyes and ears open for ideas."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Mary Eva Price, age 13, of East Peoria, Ill., for her question:

What Are Swallowtail Butterflies?

Last week the moths fluttered into Andy's column. This week, a whole group of beautiful butterflies are here to be admired. Those of us who collect butterflies certainly treasure the handsome swallowtails and will want to know all about them. For they are the glamor boys and girls of the glamorous world of butterflies.

All these insects begin life as eggs and go through a caterpillar or larva stage. Next comes their sleeping beauty or pupa stage. Some of the moths pupate in cocoons of softest silk. Not so the butterflies. All of them pupate in crisp shelled chrysalises. You may find the pupae near the plants on which they fed as caterpillars. If you put them in a warm, dry box they will hatch into adult butterflies.

The swallowtails are the largest of our butterflies and you can recognize them by the pointed swallowtail at the end of each back wing. The biggest of the group is the giant swallowtail, whose velvety wings may spread four and a half inches wide. As a caterpillar, he is a brown and yellow pinto, very fond of the leaves of wild cherry and other plants. As an adult, he is also brown and yellow, but what a difference. The wide brown wings are ribboned and spotted with yellow buttons. There are also two little yellow tear-drops, one inside each of his brown swallowtail tips.

The spicebush swallowtail spent his caterpillar days on a spicebush, sassafras or some other related plant. In those days he was a green fellow

'The Strain Is Terrible'

By J. W. PICKERSGILL
(11th of a Series)

The first month after Mackenzie King's return from Britain in September was a relatively quiet one. Then, at the beginning of October, he was drawn into the final stages of the discussion on the establishment of the price ceiling.

The scheme for a rigid price ceiling was subsequently devised and first considered by the cabinet on Oct. 3. Mackenzie King had Graham Towers of the Bank of Canada, W. C. Clark of finance, Hector McKinnon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and Norman Robertson sit with cabinet during part of the discussion and "present their different points of view."

PICKERSGILL

"I, myself, took strong issue with the attempt to do everything at once, which is the view that Towers and Clark so strongly hold. They seem to think that we can, at one stroke, legislate to have prices kept where they are and wages, the same."

Great Upheaval

"I pointed out that an effort of the kind would probably result in such an upheaval of different classes, groups, that the government would find itself in an intolerable position. That we would all be made ridiculous in the end by trying to do by order-in-council something that the economic forces of the world would defy with impunity."

"I think I have had some influence in persuading the group and my colleagues in the cabinet as well, to leave sufficient leeway to enable us force, will misrepresent willfully, and will have all Canada 'by the ears' in short time. With Quebec hating him, he will hate in return, be arrogant with labor and will seek to stir up the farmers."

"I can see where all that LaPointe and I have striven hardest to effect will be undone in some degree. But life day-by-day will be made intolerable by his attacks, misrepresentations and the like."

He wrote that he was "sick at heart. I felt I wanted to give up public life, and avoid the break in my health which I feared might come."

"The strain is terrible — mental fatigue and physical combined, but depression as well, and feeling of being left alone, old colleagues gone or going, no one to help, and alone at Laurier House . . . no one to talk with."

During the day Mackenzie King also got word that LaPointe was seriously ill in hospital and he wrote: "With LaPointe gone I have no one with whom to counsel as I need to at this time."

On November 12 Mackenzie King was cheered to receive a letter from the White House in which the President said: "It is a grand and glorious thing for Canada and the United States to have the team of Mackenzie King and Roosevelt at the helm in days like these."

"This letter," Mackenzie King wrote, "was an answer to prayer. It certainly gave me reason to feel that I should hold on at all costs."

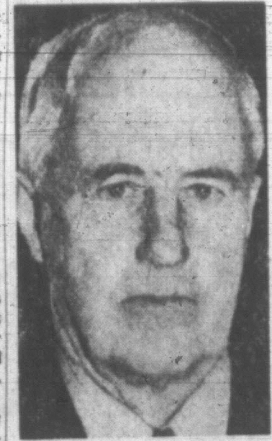

At the Cabinet meeting on November 13, Mackenzie King "drew attention to Meighen's statement of the morning and then pointed out that my position now is the same as Sir Wilfrid's was in 1917: that Meighen was no longer for co-operation with Government policy—opposition first for conscription, National Government and against our policies generally."

'Fear of Lord'

Following a suggestion in cabinet that they should fight the conscription issue on the ground that conscription was unnecessary, Mackenzie King agreed "about taking our stand on the merit of the situation, but the question of an election was a matter which should be kept in the background."

"It was necessary to put fear of the Lord into the Tories, who did not want to face the people and who knew that the people generally were against conscription for overseas; also, to keep some of our people in line; that so long as our own people stay firm, we could meet any situation . . . I did not agree as to attempting any settlement of the conscription question at this session . . . It was better it should remain over until the whole matter was carefully weighed."

To the problem of facing Meighen and the campaign for conscription was added the even more urgent problem of finding a successor for Lapointe. Mackenzie King set about the task at once.

ARTHUR MEIGHEN
... "he'll stop at nothing"

LaPointe was buried in Riviere du Loup, and on the train going there from Quebec, Mackenzie asked Cardin about a successor for LaPointe. Cardin "agreed as to Godbout, if we could secure him but said almost instantly:

Get St. Laurent

"Why do you not get St. Laurent? He is a distinguished figure; very able lawyer; carries great authority." In his diary that day Mackenzie King wrote: "I feel that he is perhaps the very man most needed, as I must get someone outstanding for the position of Minister of Justice. It is owing to the French, the Bar, the Government, and the country that the Minister of Justice should be a man of exceptional legal attainments. Ralston would be splendid for the office but he is needed where he is."

Godbout came to Ottawa on December 4 and talked first with Mackenzie King alone at Laurier House and later at the Prime Minister's office with Dandurand and Cardin present. Mackenzie King observed that: "It was apparent to me as soon as I saw Godbout that he was feeling that he should not leave Quebec."

"He has two reasons, one that he does not feel his knowledge of English is sufficient for the federal Parliament; and secondly, that leaving Quebec at this time, in all probability, will create a division in his own Cabinet; letting Duplessis get a fresh hold on the Province on Non-participation or extreme nationalist lines."

All-Important

Mackenzie King "telephoned Mr. St. Laurent and asked if he could come and see me at Ottawa to discuss one or two important matters."

St. Laurent arrived at Laurier House Dec. 5. Mackenzie King thanked him for coming so promptly and then said, "I assumed he would know what it was I was so anxious to talk to him about."

"I then said the question of government was all-important at this moment, and the need great for the best men that could be secured. That I was particularly anxious to get someone who would be a worthy successor in Quebec East to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and LaPointe. I believed he was the one to come into the cabinet as successor to LaPointe as minister of justice, and to represent Quebec East."

"Only once in conversation did he refer to desirability of trying to secure someone else than himself. It was clear that what he was contemplating in his mind was a sense of public service. He made it clear that he would not want to stay longer than for the duration of the war, and that his coming would only be for the war service."

Mackenzie King noted that, in discussing the winning of the war, St. Laurent indicated "nothing could be done until America moved her armies in. He spoke of the subject of conscription incidentally as likely to arise when the U.S. went into the war; that if they conscripted their men for overseas, it might become necessary to do the same."

Secret Kept

On Dec. 9 Mackenzie King received word over the telephone from St. Laurent that he would accept.

When he went into the cabinet meeting that day Mackenzie King told his colleagues that, after falling with Godbout, he had secured St. Laurent. It gave him "an immense satisfaction to have been able to keep this appointment a secret from the press and the public up to the moment of the appointment itself."

St. Laurent was sworn in as minister of justice on Dec. 10 and attended his first cabinet meeting on Dec. 11. Mackenzie King noted that he "took his place in a moment among those present and entered into the debate during the afternoon to good effect."

The cabinet into which St. Laurent entered was continuing almost daily to wrestle with the manpower question and the impending crisis over conscription. Neither had been simplified by the entry of the United States into the war.

BUT BITTER U.S., SOVIET WORDS FLOW ON

Constructive Peace Steps Voted Unanimously by UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Despite bitter words between the United States and Russia, the United Nations General Assembly Monday night unanimously approved a resolution urging constructive steps to achieve world peace.

The resolution — sponsored by nearly 30 countries and presented by India — seeks to reverse the trend of the 15th assembly's opening weeks which explored the chilly depths of the cold war.

Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon of India said it is essential for the assembly to quit wrangling and this could be done by giving unanimous approval to the multilateral resolution.

NOT MENTIONED

While the resolution does not mention the Soviet Union or the U.S. — and does not propose any concrete steps for relaxing tension — it asks the assembly to call on all countries to refrain from actions that would aggravate the tension.

In this way, the trend toward deterioration in international relations would be arrested, Menon said.

Menon presented the resolution earlier Monday and its success was assured from the first.

But just before the vote, U.S.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Monday: David Harold Walker, 325 Wilson, $20; Ferenc Janics, 1250 Pandora, $15; Gordon Willie Stewart, 1836 Ferndale, $15, for driving without a hand brake.

Roy Hillburn Pearson, Sidney, $15 each for driving with inadequate muffler and hand brake.

Clarence B. Ackerman, 905 Lawndale, $35; Albert Edward Cree, 1053 Rockland, $35; Joseph Donald Williams, 1025 Terrace, $40, for careless driving.

delegate James J. Wadsworth accused Russia of trying to use the proposal as a means to fan the flames of international hatred and suspicion.

He spoke after Valerian Zorin, the Soviet delegate, told the assembly it is the U.S. that is poisoning the international atmosphere and threatening peace by a policy of provocation. Zorin repeated charges that the U.S. wrecked the Summit Conference in Paris last May.

DEFENDS UN ACTION

Before the vote there were additional indications in committee debate of bitter East-West battles ahead on proposals put forward by Soviet Premier Khrushchev, whose stormy appearance in the assembly ended last Thursday.

The vote was 91 to 0. Eight small countries were absent. The Congo delegation has not been seated in the 99-country assembly.

In other developments at the UN Monday: Ambassador Zenon Rossides of Cyprus, one of 17 new countries admitted to the UN, repudiated the idea of alignment for his country in the cold war.

He commended the work of the UN in the Congo crisis and rejected Khrushchev's proposal for a drastic change in the secretary-general's post.

Runaway Car Bowls Over Young Girls

A driverless car bowled two young girls into hospital with leg injuries when it rolled backwards across a sidewalk at 12.12 p.m. Monday.

Vivian Smith, 13, 2526 Bridge, and Gurmee Munsha, 14, 560 John, went to St. Joseph's Hospital for attention after they were hit in front of 2818 Rose.

The girls were walking on the west side of Rose when a car, owned by Wilhelmina Zaalberg, 2823 Rose, rolled from where it was parked on the east side of the street, crossed Rose and hit the girls, throwing Vivian into the yard at 2818 as it broke about eight feet of fence, property of Andrew Gray.

MISSED TURN

At 3.05 a.m. today, Joyce Wiseman, 33, 1660 Island Highway, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with a cut lip, face abrasions and shock after the car she drove went over a curb at Fountain Circle.

It had been driven north on Government when the woman missed a right turn into the circle.

'ROOM FOR ALL'

Bring Your Own Soapbox And Open Up

Soapbox orators are getting into a lather over who will be the first to "perform" at Speakers' Corner in Beacon Hill Park.

City council has given permission for public speaking in a section of the park, as requested by the Socialist Party of Canada. The "little Hyde Park plan" allows anyone to expound on a subject of his choice to the birds, bees and any passer-by who cares to stop.

GO AHEAD

No permission is required from the city for individual orations. Anyone can go out to the deep-end section of the park at any time and set up his soapbox.

Nevertheless two notices have been received at City Hall from parties who want to be the first to perform.

One is the Socialist Party which lobbied for the Speakers' Corner, and the other is W. A. (Bill) Scott, second-hand store operator and self-appointed champion of crackpots.

Both want to be first to go to their public next Sunday in Speakers' Corner.

"WE GOT IT"

The Socialists are unhappy with Scott trying to "steal their stuff."

Said 77-year-old Christopher Luff, secretary-treasurer of the party: "What right has he to ask the city that he be the first speaker? We fought for it. He did not do a thing to establish Speakers' Corner."

The city's reply to the strife, through parks administrator Herbert Warren, was: "There's plenty of room for all. The Speakers' Corner is on a one-year trial basis."

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Thomas John Irvine, Work Point, and Mark Andrew Paine, 454 Fraser, $25 each for violation of driver's licence restriction.

Nathaniel French, 749 Broughton, previously fined for impaired driving, prohibited from driving for one month.

Mayor Jolts Edgelow On Insurance Claim

The scrappy B.C. Agricultural Association which recently claimed the city had done it out of $65,000 insurance money from fire-damaged Willows Fair buildings, got a jolt today.

"I have news for them," said Mayor Percy Scurrah, and it turned out to be bad. The BCAA, headed by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, claimed it should have received the insurance settlement when the buildings it leased at the fair were destroyed during the Second World War. The city used the settlement to help build the Memorial Arena but Ald. Edgelow said it should have been held in trust for the association.

ACTED LEGALLY

A search of city records began and this morning the mayor produced a letter dated Nov. 26, 1947, which he said proved the city had acted legally in taking the insurance money.

The letter was written by assistant deputy attorney-general H. A. Maclean.

The provincial government was involved because it had given the city a $45,000 grant towards construction of some of the fair buildings on condition that they were leased exclusively to the agricultural association.

PAID PREMIUMS

Mr. Maclean's search of the records showed the city had built the structures, owned the land and the buildings, paid the fire insurance and leased the buildings to the association.

One of the lease conditions was that damage or destruction of the buildings by fire would nullify the agreement.

"Under the circumstances above related," Mr. Maclean wrote, "it appears to me that the City of Victoria is the unconditional owner of the proceeds of the insurance policy and that the Agricultural Society has no claim thereon."

Fingerprint Key Point In City Trial

A fingerprint of Grant Shaver, no fixed address, was found on a laundromat coin box where it would not have been if the box had been in its proper position in the laundry machine, Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie told an Assize court jury today.

Shaver is accused of breaking, entering and theft at the Sparkle Bright Launderette, 2584 Quadra, at about 4 a.m. July 12 this year.

About $90 in coins was taken from the machines and from a cigarette vending machine on the premises.

EYEWITNESS

First witness, Edward Warburton who runs a bakeshop at 2631 Quadra, said he was an eyewitness to some of the occurrences.

He saw a trio of men near the laundrette, and watched them. Two went inside the unattended establishment and one stood outside, "looking around."

He saw one man take the coin box out of the cigarette machine.

At this point he telephoned police.

He saw the trio walk away from the laundry establishment and enter a frame building nearby.

Police were on hand within five minutes and found Shaver on the premises of what the prosecutor described as "a hole-in-the-wall."

The coin boxes were also found there.

Trial is continuing.

ASK The TIMES

Q. What is Japan's population today? A.K.L.
A. Close to 93,500,000 persons.

Q. How many riding horses are there in the Greater Victoria area and on Vancouver Island? N.P.

A. There are about 1,200 riding horses on the island of which horses are located in the Victoria area. The Vancouver area, incidentally, has close to 5,000 riding horses.

HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Don't drink more than one glass of Captain Discovery's Delight! I know because I've tried it.

Tourist Commissioner Bill Hawkins and his committee of swashbuckling seafarers invited me to join them in selecting the prize cocktail from several dozen submitted in the Captain Discovery contest.

We unanimously (hic) awarded the first prize to E. Edward (Ted) Fugler of 928 Foul Bay Road for this simple yet powerful recipe:

One part lemon juice, one part cointreau, two parts light rum, two parts gin. Shake well with fine ice.

It's so uncomplicated I can't understand why it packs such a wallop. My only criticism ... there's too much lemon in it!

Best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. George Chapman of 1588 North Dairy Road, Victoria, today celebrating their Diamond Wedding anniversary at their son's home in Edmonton, Alta.

They came here from England more than 50 years ago.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Commander Garfield Dixon, RCN.

With the appointment of Major-General George Pearkes, VC, "Gar" enters the service of his fifth lieutenant-governor of British Columbia.

He was first appointed to Government House in 1946.

Mrs. E. M. Cowdery of Richmond, Surrey, England, is returning home this Friday after spending five months with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Pollard, at 2154 Fernside, Gordon Head.

No—she isn't flying.

"There's far too much rushing about these days," says vivacious white-haired Mrs. Cowdery. "I'm going by train and boat for a change."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The botany section of Victoria Natural History Society will hold a meeting in the Provincial Museum at 8 to 9 p.m. P. J. Croft of the B.C. Power Commission will give an illustrated talk on wild flowers and their allies.

Fines totalling $275 and $12 costs were assessed in Colwood RCMP court Monday against William Alexander Rosemus, 352 Wishart.

He pleaded guilty to charges of impaired driving, for which he was fined $200, and driving while his licence was under suspension, $75.

Dominion archivist and national librarian Dr. William Kaye Lamb will address a public meeting Thursday at 8.15 p.m. in the music room of the Public Library.

He will speak about "Canada's National Library, under auspices of Friends of the Victoria Public Library."

Dr. Lamb was formerly B.C. archivist and librarian.

Eric Van Allen, Vancouver, will address the Victoria chapter, Society of Industrial and Business Systems, at 6 p.m. Wednesday in the Pacific Club.

The address will be accompanied by a film on the subject.

Almost 4,000 adults have enrolled in fall classes operated by Greater Victoria School Board's night division—up 10 per cent from last year. A night school spokesman Monday predicted that the additional winter term enrolments in January also will be higher than last year to set a new record. Total enrolment in 1959 was 5,200.

The Air Force Association of Vancouver Island will meet on Wednesday at 8.15 p.m. in the officers' mess at RCAF Headquarters, Quadra.

Sqdn. Ldr. D. B. Ascott, commanding officer No. 2453 Sqdn. (Aux.), will give an account of the squadron's history during its nine years of existence here. The squadron is due to be disbanded.

Street sale of Remembrance Day poppies will be held Saturday, Nov. 5.

A poppy sale office has been opened at 1115 Langley, next door to the Churchill Hotel, EV 6-2533.

About $16 cash was pilfered from the till at Bill's Colwood Texaco Service Station around 4 p.m. Monday, as operator Terry White serviced a car at the front of the premises.

Colwood RCMP said a teen-aged youth and an older man were seen around the station at the time and one may have taken the money.

The Streamliners Club—a club devoted to reducing the individual weights of members—will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Pastimes Centre, Richmond Road.

The 15-member club, which has been in operation more than three years, gives prizes to members who lose the most weight over given periods of time, and fines those who haven't lost avoirdupois.

Election of officers will be held Wednesday. New members are invited. Further information can be obtained by contacting the president, Mrs. Doreen Rasmussen, at GR 9-3928.

James Bay PTA's bazaar in South Park School on Wednesday at 8 p.m. will feature a treasure chest and a magician. In addition there will be stalls of aprons, doll clothes, candy, novelties, plants and home cooking.

The Victoria firm of A. J. Barr Ltd. has submitted low tender for construction of a forced main and gravity outfall for the Chilliwack sewer system.

The company's bid of $89,624 was lowest of 11 submitted, ranging up to as high as $245,000.

Sea cadets of Shawnigan Lake School, winners of this summer's sunset ceremony observation contest, will receive the Victoria Chamber of Commerce shield at a 4.15 p.m. ceremony Wednesday in Bay Street Armory.

Presentation will be made by Col. L. W. Johnson, 25 Militia Group commander.

There will be an honor guard on hand, a color party and the band; in all comprising 75 boys aged 14 to 17.

Members of RCSC Cougar, the Shawnigan boys captured the top award after only one appearance at sunset observances in front of the Legislative Buildings here this year.

Keep the Complaints Down! Get This Knife Sharpener

By PENNY SAVER

How many times has hubby complained when asked to cut the family roast, "This knife wouldn't cut butter!" If you've ever found yourself listening to this sort of reproach—do something about it! Get one of the knife sharpeners that are imported from England by one downtown store.

Sharpeners consist of a circular flint stone, flanked on either side by rubber-banded plastic wheels.

To use, hold knife blade at an angle against flint and roll sharpener backwards and forwards on the kitchen counter or any flat surface. Ten or 20 strokes to each side should do the trick.

To hone edge to super-sharpness, give a few light strokes to each side of knife. Knife sharpeners are selling at $1.29.

You'll be interested to know that one firm is now bringing out a set of glasses and matching jug that has glasses standing four inches high instead of shorter ones previously made by them. Just the thing for that morning glass of juice!

Both glasses and jug are decorated with orange blossom and golden oranges. Complete set is priced at $2.39.

No home with children is complete without a well-filled cookie jar. If one in your house is showing signs of wear, I'd suggest you take a look at ones that are selling at $2.79 in one downtown store. You won't be able to resist them!

Imported china cookie jars have colorful, realistic patterns and cookies scattered over their creamy white sides while lids are topped with yummy-looking chocolate eclairs. You'll have trouble keeping these filled even though they will hold as many as four dozen cookies at a time!

Are You Shy at Parties? Practice Makes Perfect

Are you the type of a person who has a certain dread of parties?

Many women have this feeling and many others, unfortunately, refuse invitations because of it.

Of course the most important thing is to go! Practice makes perfect and the more contact you have with others and the more social engagements you make, the sooner you will be able to enjoy yourself completely. One thing is certain! You never will overcome shyness if you sit at home.

However, there is some real help while you practice. In the first place, whenever it is possible, dress leisurely. If you have to get ready in a big hurry, it is unsettling for several reasons. Hurry and the pressure of time just plain lead to nervousness.

Then, too, you will feel only half put together and half the battle is to feel well-groomed and well turned out. When you know that you are your most attractive self, it gives you confidence.

When you are going to a social gathering at which you want to be a success, but about which you feel timid, take a restful bath. Pamper yourself with bath salts and dusting powder. Take plenty of time with your makeup and use your best perfume.

When you get to the party, don't rush in. Be leisurely, take a deep breath before entering. Also, remember that the way you hold yourself and the way you move have an impact on your self-confidence. Even if your inclination is to slump or mince along, don't give in to it. If you hold yourself erectly and walk with easy steps, you will look more in control of the situation and you will feel that way, too.

These suggestions may sound unimportant, but they are not, because they have a terrific psychological impact!

If you would like to have my leaflet, "How to Overcome Loneliness and Self-Consciousness," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 59. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Shower of China

Miss Bette Davies, October bride-elect, was honored recently at a china shower given by Miss Eileen Galliford and Miss Ilace Norris at the home of the latter on Burnside Road. A decorated gondola held the gifts. The bride-elect was presented with a guest book and a red rose corsage and her mother, Mrs. G. Davies and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. K. Larsen, received white carnation corsages. Guests were Mrs. H. Hunt, Mrs. T. Moore, Mrs. W. Norris, Mrs. Galliford, Mrs. C. Schade, Mrs. P. Greb, Mrs. M. Waddell, Mrs. M. Clark, Mrs. B. Malone, Mrs. M. McDonald, Mrs. J. Nicholson, Mrs. B. Stanfield, Mrs. M. Rain, Mrs. B. Blevins, Mrs. O. Bradshaw, Mrs. E. Bousfield, Misses Cindy Malone, Sharon Ralph, and Marie Rain.

TODAY'S RECIPE

SCALLOPED OYSTERS

1 pint fresh oysters and their liquor, ¼ cup butter, 3 tablespoons chopped onion, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped celery, ¼ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon cayenne, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup evaporated milk, 1 cup tomato juice, 2 cups cheese cracker crumbs.

Remove any bits of shell that may be in the oysters. Melt butter and cook onion, celery, green pepper until tender. Stir in flour, salt, cayenne and pepper and slowly add milk, stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat and add tomato juice. Place ¼ of cracker crumbs in the bottom of a 1½ quart casserole and cover with half the oysters and their liquor and half the vegetable mixture. Repeat these 3 layers and top with a layer of crumbs. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) for 30 minutes.

Makes 6 servings.

DEAR ABBY

That's Life, Mom!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My son, who is in the third grade, is being exposed to a certain phase of sex education in the classroom that does not meet with my approval. His teacher is "expecting." She announced it to the class!

The children watch for her daily progress and ask her a lot of questions, which my son says she answers.

She told them she was entering her fifth month and plans to teach through her seventh.

I always thought it was the parents' place to tell their children the facts of life, not a stranger's. A third grader has plenty of time to learn those things, and now he is asking ME questions. I resent having been pushed into explaining things before he is ready. My neighbor says I am narrow-minded. Am I?

ONE BOY'S MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: A child who is old enough to ask is old enough to be told. Exposure to motherhood in the developmental stages can do your son no harm. I think he is fortunate to have such a teacher.

DEAR ABBY: My husband calls himself a business man and makes a very good living. I have seen him buy cigarettes by the carton from a minor boy (17). He pays this boy much less than the regular wholesale price. He does some fancy figuring and is cheating the boy and breaking the law to boot. This bird can read and write and has been in business for 20 years. He is setting a bad example for our 16-year-old son who sees what he is doing and is nobody's fool. If I turned my husband in the whole family would suffer because of this idiot. What can I do?

DEAR HELPLESS: Your husband may be financially solvent, but he is morally bankrupt. If you can't convince him to go straight—go straight to a lawyer and arrange separate maintenance (no divorce) and see if that doesn't change his business tactics.

DEAR ABBY: My letter might come as a shock to Howard, who raised Cain with you for okaying padding. I am a man of 40 who spent 20 years in the navy. I've gone out with girls all over the world. Some were padded and some were not. Some were all there and some were all there and yet more, too. I never enjoyed their company any more or less for these features. Last year I met and married the woman worth waiting for. She had false teeth and false this and false that. I didn't know anything was false except the teeth before I married her. Believe me, Abby, she can put all those beefy glamor girls to shame. It's personality and character and real devotion that counts! DAVE

William (Billy) Cove and Bride Honeymoon in California Cities

Mr. and Mrs. William J. T. Cove, who are on a wedding trip to California, will return to live in Saanichton. Their marriage took place earlier this month in St. Mark's Anglican Church, which was decorated with baskets of white and yellow chrysanthemums for the ceremony. Canon Robert Willis officiated.

Bride, formerly Miss Beverly Dianne Punt, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice W. Punt.

She wore a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace and a nylon over a full satin skirt and with a bolero embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. Petal headpiece, also edged in pearls and sequins, held her short illusion veil. She carried a fan-shaped bouquet of red roses with white feather carnations. Peridot pendant and matching earrings, gift of the groom, completed the ensemble. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

SISTER ATTENDANT

Mrs. Reginald Boorman was her sister's matron of honor with Mrs. Ronald Burnham and Mrs. Kenneth Schneider, the bridesmaids. Their dresses were of mauve crystal taffeta with accessories and bouquets of mauve chrysanthemums to match.

Groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Cove, had Gerald Cove as best man and Reginald Boorman and Reginald Young as ushers.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Cove received wedding guests in the Golden Slipper Supper Club where the bride's uncle, Andrew Ovcharick gave the toast. Three-tier wedding cake, was decorated with white tulle and surrounded with white candles and vases of deep red roses. Bride left the reception wearing an imported cherry red travel suit trimmed with black fox fur and with matching accessories.

'Miss Sunshine' Here on Visit; Known to Many British Columbians

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
"Can I put something on a horse in the 2.30?" asked a Victoria man who called at British Columbia House, London.
"Sure," answered Miss Babs Denbigh, the receptionist, "I'll put it on for you."
That is the kind of service British Columbians have come to expect from Miss "Sunshine" Denbigh over the past 11 years. More than 3,000 of them called at B.C. House in 1959 and this year the total is expected to exceed 3,500.
They want just everything—invitations to Buckingham Palace, garden parties, tickets for first nights, front seats at the Wimbledon tennis tournaments, where to go, what to see, what to do, where to shop. Miss Denbigh tries to please them all, and in recognition of her services, the provincial government gave her a two months' return trip to B.C.

Her home is in Vancouver, but she's now looking up friends in Victoria while staying with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril F. Denbigh at 3630 Quadra.
When Miss Denbigh was hired by Agent General W. A. McAdam at B.C. House in 1949, she was what might be called a "bright girl."
Today she is an established character—a poised individualist with lots of wit and wisdom; a peppy conversationalist and a lively commentator on many things.

As to putting bets on horses...
"It's not illegal over there," she pointed out. "You can ring up a bookie and place your bet in two minutes flat. I don't do this often, but obliged a Victoria boy who called."
"No—his horse didn't get anywhere!"
Miss Denbigh's chief concern is that with the yearly increase in B.C. visitors to London she may not be able to keep up the high-powered service she has been giving.
SO MANY REQUESTS
"So many people expect to get into Buckingham Palace garden parties at the last minute, I ring up the Lord Chamberlain's office, but they expect lots of notice. All applications for the July parties are supposed to be by the end of April."
As a Canadian Press reporter in London, I used to call at B.C. House once a week. Miss Denbigh was always bang up-to-date with B.C. news and ready to do any service required.
Every Friday evening she mails a list of B.C. House visitors to the Victoria Times and it appears, regularly as clockwork, in the women's pages.
Since she arrived here Saturday afternoon, "Miss Sunshine" has been entertained in half-a-dozen Victoria homes—and Monday she was received at the Legislative Buildings by Trade Minister Robert Bonner and Deputy Minister Tom Sturgess.

Provincial President Speaks To Board on Out-Patient Care

Expansion of the home care program, with emphasis on rehabilitative nursing, was subject of a talk given by Mrs. Roy King, British Columbia president of Victorian Order of Nurses, at recent meeting of the board of Victoria branch of the VON.
In Victoria, Burnaby and Vancouver branches, a nurse each had been added to staff, through assistance from the B.C. government, to establish hospital referrals to contact patients in need of nursing at home, Mrs. King said.
"One of five $1,000 bursaries available each year to nurses of British decent had been awarded to Miss Audrey Shepherd, Vancouver, for post-graduate work in public health, she announced.

Report of the district director, Miss Elizabeth Riddell, showed 16 cases referred for home care from St. Joseph's and Jubilee Hospitals in first month's operation of the project here. Total visits made by nurses last month was 1,920 to 266 patients. View Royal received 94 visits in the three summer months. Miss Ruby Simpson, chairman of the education committee, said staff nurse Mrs. A. Lassen is taking a course in more effective speaking, for teaching purposes; Miss Marjorie Joyce is taking part in a seminar on mental health, and that 75 books for use of the staff have been ordered from available funds.

Mrs. J. Cox and Mrs. K. Sedgman were appointed to the education and nurses' advisory committees, respectively; Mrs. T. Rose, chairman, announced date for the annual rummage sale in early March; Mrs. G. A. Jones, VON auxiliary president, said $111 had been cleared from a recent fashion show.

Eccles-Slade Wedding Salvation Army Citadel

Marriage of Margaret Florence Slade, only daughter of F. J. Slade and the late Mrs. Slade, and Curtis Porter Eccles, only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Eccles, was solemnized recently at Salvation Army Citadel with Captain D. Graham officiating.

Altar was flanked by two standard baskets of white and mauve chrysanthemums. Organist was G. Clarke and soloist, Mrs. Helen Leech, sang "O Perfect Love."

St. George's Bazaar Opened By Mrs. Bennett

Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett opened annual bazaar of Daughters of St. George No. 83 held recently in K of P Hall. She was introduced by Mrs. C. Fairservice.

Given in marriage by her father, bride wore a white lace, ballerina-length dress cut on princess lines with three-quarter-length sleeves and scalloped neckline. Her waist-length veil filmed from a rhinestone tiara and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Mrs. S. W. Kendall was general convener. Managing various stalls were Mrs. A. Harris, Mrs. M. Harris and Mrs. W. Cleaver, tombolas; Mrs. L. Murphy, tea tickets; Mrs. M. Clarke, candy; Mrs. E. McMillan and Mrs. A. H. Vivian, aprons; Mrs. A. Hooper, home cooking; Mrs. M. McGeese, hairdressing; Mrs. L. Patterson, fancy work; Mrs. S. Easler and Mrs. W. Ellis, novelties; Miss E. Reid, fortune telling.
Mrs. E. Turner, Mrs. L. Clifford, Mrs. G. Lomas and Mrs. W. S. Groat were in charge of afternoon tea, and Mrs. M. McLean and Mrs. M. Cleaver, bingo.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Shirley Anderson, wore a ballerina-length dress of blue organza over satin featuring a dipped applique neckline.
Groomsman was Nelson G. Martin while Ernest Bent and Ernie Slade were ushers.
Reception followed in Salvation Army Hall where Harold Eccles, best man, presented the bride. Centring the head table, three-tiered wedding cake was flanked by white candles in crystal holders and sweet peas.
For travelling, Mrs. Eccles chose a peacock blue dress with blue-grey topcoat, beige accessories and pink rose corsage. Happy couple left for a honeymoon in Southern California after which they will make their home in Victoria.

Harvest Setting in Langford Church for Plaxton-King Vows

An attractive autumn wedding took place in Gordon United Church in Langford recently, when Rev. Gordon F. Dangerfield, heard the marriage vows of Patricia Irene King and Bruce Campbell Plaxton.
Church was decorated in the harvest theme with gladioli, vegetables and fruit. Mrs. J. C. Nimmo was organist and Stan Martin, the soloist.
The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. King of 2860 Peatt Road was given in marriage by her father. Her gown, styled with fitted bodice, square neckline and lily-point sleeves, was floor-length and made of white lace over tulle. Bouquet was of red roses and white carnations.

Bridal attendants were gown-ed in rainbow shades. Dress of matron of honor, Mrs. Dolores Paton was in pale Nile green, bridesmaids, Miss Pearl Larson and Miss Geraldine Pearce wore turquoise and lemon-yellow respectively, while the tiny flower girl, Diana Fraser, also wore pale green.
Groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Plaxton of 1315 Richardson Street, had Lloyd Plaxton as his best man. Stan Mabey and Vern Failes were ushers.
A reception followed in Langford Community Hall where a heart-shaped cake was cut. Red roses and candles decorated the bridal table. A Davidson proposed the toast.
For a honeymoon trip up Island Mrs. Plaxton donned a blue, beige-neck suit and a short fur jacket. Pink corsage and beige accessories completed the outfit. Upon return, young couple will live at 2860 Peatt Road.

Guests from out of town at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. R. Huich, Mrs. O. Walters, Mrs. D. Sutherland and Mrs. F. Ransom of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. D. Dent of North Burnaby and Mr. and Mrs. J. Dart of Parksville.

Visit City After 31 Years

Spending a few days in Victoria are Mr. and Mrs. George A. Walker of Glendale, Calif. This is the first visit of the couple since their marriage in First Baptist Church, 31 years ago. Mrs. Walker is the eldest child of the late Rev. H. P. Thorpe, first minister of Douglas Street Baptist Church, and Mrs. Thorpe. She received her education at Victoria High School and Victoria College and later taught at Margaret Jenkins School. Leaving here Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Walker will spend a few days in North Vancouver as the house guest of the latter's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKay. While on the mainland, Mrs. Walker will be the guest of honor at a dinner of Canadian Legion auxiliaries of Vancouver. She is a past state president of the organization. From Vancouver, the couple will travel to Longview, Wash., where they will attend the annual dinner celebrating the city's inception in 1923. Both are pioneers of the American city. They will also visit Seattle, Portland and San Francisco before returning home in mid-November.

At the Tea Hour

Mrs. Leslie Macdonell was hostess at the tea hour this afternoon in her Admirals Road home to honor Mrs. Norman Porter, Vancouver, councillor for the lower mainland region, auxiliaries division of British Columbia Hospitals Association. Other guests were representatives of all hospital auxiliaries of Greater Victoria area. Presiding at the attractively appointed tea table was Mrs. K. W. L. Scott, councillor of the Lower Vancouver Island region. During her visit here Mrs. Porter is staying at the Empress Hotel.

Mrs. Adams, Miss Heather Adams and Miss Cookie Adams of Comox.

HISTORIC MEMENTOES

EDMONTON (CP)—Mrs. J. J. Anderson, daughter of the late Hon. Frank Oliver, who was northern Alberta's first member of Parliament in 1905, has presented a number of family possessions of historical significance for display in the newly-opened Historical Exhibits Building here.

Preferential Tea

Sorority emblem of yellow roses and a giant array of yellow mums were decorations at annual preferential tea held by Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. Tea, in honor of new pledges, took place last Sunday in home of Mrs. E. V. Finland, 948 Esquimalt Rd. Present were Mrs. R. Cain, a new pledge; Mrs. M. Aldersmith, adviser; Mrs. Finland, social sponsor and members Mrs. R. L. Frenette, Mrs. W. L. Walters, Mrs. Shirley Wright, Mrs. D. W. Glaney, Mrs. D. Peaker, Mrs. W. J. Snow, Miss Erma McCullough, Miss Lea Higgins and Miss Trudy Wittal.

Wedding Guests

Guests who came from out of town for the wedding of Margaret Florence Slade and Curtis Porter Eccles were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Smith of Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. E. Slade of Comox; Mr. and Mrs. J. Barton, Mrs. E. McAllister, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hitchen, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ritchie and Mr. and Mrs. C. Pearson of Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. G. Price of Chemainus; Mrs. D. WOMEN HAVE ADVICE FOR JOHN KENNEDY

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy launched a cross-country campaign on Monday to find out what women voters think about presidential campaign issues.
She also got some frank advice for her husband, Democratic candidate John Kennedy. A friendly gathering of close to 200 Democratic precinct workers told Mrs. Kennedy her husband should: (1) Speak more slowly, (2) let some of his Irish wit come to the surface, and (3) get in more of his own comments after answering questions in television debates with Vice-President Nixon.
With a smile and an occasional laugh Mrs. Kennedy promised to tell her husband.

PATRICE MICHELIN
... murder charge.

French Scion Says Killing Was Accident

TOURS, France (AP)—Patrice Michelin, a 32-year-old scion of France's famous tire firm, today fiercely and repeatedly denied any intent to kill his wife, Nicole.

Michelin was jailed here Monday night on a charge of murdering his wife during a hunting party Sunday on their estate.

Mrs. Michelin, 29-year-old mother of three young children, was shot through the head.

Michelin told police that his rifle discharged accidentally as he stumbled on coming through a thicket behind his wife.

The young husband led police over the scene Monday afternoon. He repeatedly re-enacted what he said were his actions just prior to the fatal shot.

Using Michelin's own rifle, police purposely stumbled several times and reported the gun would not discharge when the butt struck the ground.

Michelin today strenuously asserted his innocence. "I fell," he insisted. "On hitting the ground my rifle went off."

Relatives Continue Hunt for Lost Boy

FORT RESOLUTION, N.W.T. (CP)—The search for 12-year-old Herbert Laferty, missing since Oct. 8 in the rugged bush and muskeg country in this area 650 miles north of Edmonton, will continue. The official search was abandoned Sunday after seven days of a fruitless hunt by ground parties and a helicopter but relatives are continuing the hunt.

GLASS BLOWER COMING

Gallery Ready For the Worst

Several cylinders of propane and oxygen gas will be moved into the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria Thursday.

They won't be used for reconstruction purposes but to provide John Burton, internationally famous creator of blown glass, with a hot flame to permit him to demonstrate his technique.

"You can rest assured that gallery officials will be standing by with fire extinguishers," said Colin Graham, curator.

The demonstration will be held Thursday evening. It will be open to the public but accommodation will be limited.

IT'S SECRET

Mr. Graham said Mr. Burton uses a secret process to make a textured and pitted patina to his work.

The artist who began his career as a metallurgist with the British Admiralty, is one of the founders of the Sheffield Educational Settlement.

He has travelled for several years throughout Europe and Asia lecturing on education and world peace.

Mr. Burton came to the United States in 1926 and during the Second World War served there as news commentator and analyst for CBS radio.

Since then he has devoted himself to glass blowing as a fine art. His works are frequently exhibited in leading museums.

The art gallery plans to hold an exhibition of his work in November.

Final Tribute To 'Unusual' Little Girl

Friends of the family gathered at Sands Chapel of Rest at 10 a.m. today to pay final tribute to Bonnie Barrett, who died Saturday aged 10.

Bonnie wanted to be a teacher. Her ambition so impressed family friends that they started a Bonnie Barrett Colwood Bursary Fund to provide $25 for deserving Colwood High School graduates who want to take teacher training.

"UNUSUAL CHILD"

Originator was Mrs. Marie Gaunt, 3369 Painter, who said aim of the bursary was "to pay tribute to a most unusual child."

Bonnie was taken ill two months ago.

Rev. Gordon Dangerfield officiated at the ceremony.

Czechs 'Volunteer'

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Several thousand Communist "volunteers" are being trained and equipped in Czechoslovakia for military service in Cuba, and are due there next month, the Inter-American Press Association was told Monday night.

TRAFFIC DEATH HEARING

'Floored Gas, Flew Past Us'

Witnesses riding in another car were close enough to hear the thump of a pedestrian colliding with the death car in a Langford fatality Oct. 1.

Two final witnesses gave evidence at the third sitting of a preliminary hearing for criminal negligence in the death of 19-year-old Gary Stenford, 900 Lavender, which was completed in Colwood RCMP court Monday.

James William Hamilton, 20, of Victoria, whose car was in-involved in the accident at Spencer and Goldstream, faces the negligence charge.

Thomas H. Richards, 16, of 1402 Stanley, and William James Hamilton, 1037 Craigdarroch (no relation to the accused) were passengers in a car which passed the pedestrian seconds before his death.

They told of seeing a car similar to Hamilton's during a period immediately before the fatal collision.

OVERTAKEN

The other car was behind them at Parsons Bridge, overtook their car soon after, went out of sight, was seen parked at a service station at Colwood Corner, then came up behind theirs again and tried to overtake it just before the accident.

couldn't see his headlights," Hamilton said. "He kept beside us... really floored the accelerator and flew past us."

The witness said the pedestrian was "well on the gravel part" of the road shoulder. Their own speed then was 40, he estimated.

He said "I saw a boy walking on the left side of the road going the same way we were. Just as the pedestrian was beside us, the car behind tried to pass."

Richards said he heard a thump, then later said: "Everyone in the car was pretty scared, so we kept on to the new highway and headed back towards the city."

He said the occupants of the car discussed among themselves whether or not the pedestrian had been struck.

Monday night two days later they contacted the RCMP.

A fourth and final session of the hearing was set for 1.30 p.m. Thursday.

LATE ACTRESS' DAUGHTER TAKES LIFE

NEW YORK (AP)—Bridget Hayward, 21, daughter of the late actress Margaret Sullivan and Broadway producer Leland Hayward, apparently committed suicide Monday in her midtown apartment, an assistant medical examiner said today.

It was less than 10 months ago that Margaret Sullivan died in New Haven, Conn., a few hours before she was to go on stage. Her death was attributed to an overdose of sleeping pills.

PLAY HERE FRIDAY

Guards Always 'On the Double'

A hot and hectic pace has been kept up by the regimental band of the famed Coldstream Guards and the pipes and drums of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders since they arrived on this continent Sept. 13.

They have played "at least" 25 engagements and will present their colorful performance here Friday at 8.30 p.m. in the Memorial Arena.

Close to 30 ex-soldiers have contacted the booking agents, Famous Artists, both here and in Vancouver asking if they can meet the CO. Most at some time had affiliation with the Guards or the Camerons.

Major John Riley, 37, a "Coldstreamer" would like to do this but he's rushed. He whipped into Victoria Monday to arrange accommodation for the other two officers with the bands and the 94 other ranks, then took off again for Vancouver to do the same thing there.

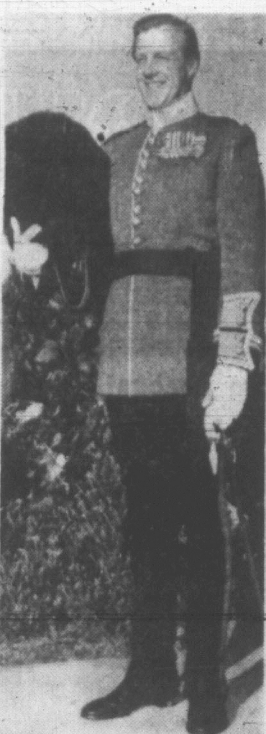

GREAT RECEPTION

Reception, he said, has been "wonderful wherever we go." They have played in Springfield, Mass., New York City, Washington, Philadelphia, Montreal, Ottawa and elsewhere.

"Everyone seems pleased to see us," said the major, who in his own words is "a non-playing captain."

"I'm apt to be caught out if they ask me tricky questions about bagpipes," he said.

The major, a native of Jersey in the Channel Islands, joined the guards in 1943 and saw service in Germany, France, Palestine and Malaya. His travelling "kit," of course, includes scarlet tunic and bearskin cap.

New School For Jobless Asked in City

A meeting of the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria passed a resolution Monday calling for establishment of a vocational school here to increase educational opportunities for the unemployed.

A similar school already exists in Vancouver, where unskilled, unemployed workmen can learn trades to enable them to get jobs.

The resolution followed an address by Jack White, of the department of education as a means of combatting unemployment.

Mr. White told the group that more than 50 per cent of the seasonal unemployed have less than an eighth grade education.

SKILL, NEEDED

Industry, he said, must increase productivity in order to compete in world markets and to do that it must have more automation. More skilled and educated people will be needed to bring about that change.

Last week Education Minister Leslie Peterson announced plans to help B.C.'s unemployed through education. The provincial government intends to set up day school classes for adults to get at least a grade 12 education.

The welfare council's resolution goes one step further than the provincial government's plan, said Dr. E. N. Boettcher, council president.

"Even Prince George has a vocational school—it is ridiculous there it not one in Victoria," he said.

Deer Hunter Fined

NANAIMO—Harry Lomas was fined $10 in court here for having a deer with a tag on it which had not been locked.

Game Warden Frank Greenfield stopped Lomas on the Nanaimo Lakes Road. He told the court the infraction could easily have been a mistake and for this reason asked for the minimum fine.

The deer was returned to the hunter.

LOVE LETTERS IN THE SKY?

High-flying jet aircraft attracted wide attention over Victoria between 1 and 2 p.m. Monday, making majestic circles marked by contrails which hung lazily high in the sky. Aircraft was thought to be interceptor from U.S. Air Force base near Tacoma.

Quipped an RCAF officer: "Perhaps he was tying love knots for his girl friend." Clear contrail pattern could be seen as far away as B.C. lower mainland. USAF jets are in air over this area constantly as part of duties with NORAD.

U.K. WARNED BY RUSSIA ON SUB BASES

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio warned today that an agreement giving Polaris-equipped U.S. nuclear submarines base facilities in Scotland is "fraught with the most serious consequences for Britain."

Under negotiations in Washington for several months, the agreement is expected to be announced in Parliament next month.

U.S. 'Spy' Confessed To Go Free

VIENNA (AP)—A young American teacher, convicted by a Soviet court as a spy, said today he pleaded guilty to espionage charges because the Russians told him he would get a light sentence.

Mark L. Kaminsky, 28, of near Niles, Mich., was sentenced Sept. 16 to seven years imprisonment. The sentence was suspended and he was expelled from the Soviet Union, where he had been touring with a companion.

Kaminsky said he was not badly treated and his trial was carefully managed by the Russians.

"They gave me a lawyer," he said. "He was not of much assistance, but he cheered me up. He advised me to confess to the charge wholeheartedly and tell court I felt very remorseful. He stressed the part about 'remorseful' time and again."

'PEACE DELEGATION' COMING FROM RUSSIA

MOSCOW (UPI)—A 10-man Soviet "peace delegation" was en route to New York today convinced that war is "not a fatal inevitability."

The delegation will take part in an unofficial meeting of Russian and American public figures, the official Tass News Agency reported.

The meeting from Oct. 29 to Nov. 4 is being held on the initiative of Norman Cousins, chairman of the American Committee for a Sensible Nuclear Policy and editor of Saturday Review.

Tass said its purpose is to discuss problems of peaceful co-existence, disarmament, international co-operation and the strengthening of friendly relations between the Russian and American peoples.

De Gaulle Wins Vital Test Vote

Narrow Margin Proves Shock

PARIS (UPI)—The government today won the first round in a test of strength between Parliament and President Charles de Gaulle's two-year-old "strong-man" regime.

The National Assembly rejected, by 264 votes to 213, a motion calling for it to refuse discussion of the government's project for formation of an independent French nuclear striking force.

The margin, however, was far narrower than the government had hoped for. More than 50 deputies abstained from voting and a large section of the Independent (conservative) party deserted the government on the issue.

The result was a shock for the government. Political experts predicted that Prime Minister Michel Debre almost certainly would be forced to use the weapon of a confidence vote to win the final showdown expected in the early hours of Thursday.

The test vote was taken after former premier Paul Reynaud told the National Assembly he believed President Eisenhower will invite France to share American nuclear secrets after the presidential election Nov. 8.

FINANCIAL TROUBLE

French parliamentary leaders warned, however, that the government may be unable to afford President Charles de Gaulle's plan for a billion-dollar independent nuclear striking force.

Speaking in a critical debate on the government's plan, Reynaud said "there are good chances that we shall be admitted soon to the nuclear club."

"In my opinion," he said, "the decision will be taken by President Eisenhower after the Nov. 8 presidential election."

The Assembly first heard reports by its finance, defence and foreign affairs committees on the bill to give France a striking force equipped with French-built atomic bombers, rockets, nuclear bombs and warheads, rocket-firing warships and submarines.

Finance committee spokesman Henri Dorey asked the government pointedly: "Are not the objectives of this project perhaps greater than our financial abilities?"

Joel le Theule, reporting for the defence committee, said his group favored a nuclear striking force. But he added that it doubted whether creation of such a force would allow France to maintain its present military commitments, particularly in Algeria.

3 Congolese Women Slain

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Three native women were reported murdered today in a new outbreak of violence in the chaotic Congo.

The violence coincided with mounting criticism by Congolese leaders against army Col. Joseph Mobutu's "strong-man" control of this unstable regime.

The outbreak of terrorism prompted Mayor Daniel Kanza to impose a dusk-to-dawn curfew over the city.

Clarinetists James Hacker and Colin Frechter, both 22, were to have been baptized Sunday. The RAF whisked them out of Singapore when cables from their parents failed to deter them. They were due to arrive in England today.

RAF BANDSMEN CONVERTED BY JEHOVAHITES

'Witnesses' Shed Uniforms

LONDON (AP)—Royal Air Force chiefs today ordered an inquiry into the conversion of members of an RAF band stationed in Singapore to the pacifist, Jehovah's Witnesses sect.

Two airmen who recently were baptized in the sect are under arrest for refusing to wear their uniforms. The RAF is flying home two other young bandsmen to give their parents a chance to talk them out of joining the sect.

Air ministry officials said they understood about 10 members of the band, based at Singapore's Changi air base, have been converted.

A man and a woman are believed responsible for sparking the wave of religious fervor among the bandsmen. Singapore police are investigating the couple.

Clarinetists James Hacker and Colin Frechter, both 22, were to have been baptized Sunday. The RAF whisked them out of Singapore when cables from their parents failed to deter them. They were due to arrive in England today.

'THE SWEET DECEIVER' IS UPON US

Don't let the balmy weather of the past few days deceive you into believing we are in for a mild winter.

This Indian summer is a "sweet deceiver," a lull before a storm, a dream which is in for a rude awakening.

That's the opinion of totem pole carver Chief Mungo Martin, one of the few remaining B.C. Indians steeped in mystical tribal beliefs.

The chief, working at Thunderbird Park today, paused for a moment to foretell what Victorians are in for in the next few months.

And what he has to say won't please tourist commissioner William Hawkins who plans this winter to advertise on the Prairies southern Vancouver Island as the "Mediterranean area of Canada."

The chief predicted a miserable winter.

"The cold, dry north wind will descend upon the island," he said. "It will bring hardship."

Meanwhile...

TORONTO (CP)—Cold arctic air moving southward across the Prairies has brought snow to parts of Manitoba and the first major cold outbreak of the season to most of Canada.

The cold air is expected to settle over Ontario by Wednesday night bringing killing frost to southern sections of the province.

In Manitoba, gusty northerly winds blowing across relatively warm lakes caused snowflurries in the south while in the north a continuous snowfall already has left two inches of snow on the ground.

Temperatures were expected to reach below freezing in northern Manitoba today and not much more than 40 degrees across the southern prairies, the coldest day this fall.

HOWARD GREEN
... speaks for Canada

Neutral Chairman On Arms Urged

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—United Nations political committee which he will address later today or Wednesday.

Green said he advocates the appointment of two additional committees to work with the committee of 10, which includes five members from the East and five from the West.

One committee would engage in technical studies and could include members of the committee of 10, as well as other countries.

The other would be a "watch-dog" committee appointed by the 99-member UN disarmament commission but would not include members of the committee of 10.

Its role would be to give advice and review progress by the negotiating body.

In the brief interview, Green suggested Switzerland as a country which could well supply a chairman for the negotiating committee.

U.S., Russia Agree

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The United States and the Soviet Union agreed today that the United Nations political committee should plunge immediately into a major disarmament debate in an attempt to break the long-standing East-West deadlock.

Mr. O'Connor said two committees will be set up to represent each side of the case of affiliation. Their reports will appear in the Provincial, the civil service magazine. A month after that the vote will be held—about mid-December.

Mr. O'Neal said it's up to the civil service to decide which way it goes, but the federation will still work for its rights.

"Whatever action they take we'll continue to press for recognition of government employees. No group has been more badly treated," he said. Promises had been broken, the Carrothers report on labor relations with the civil service has been withheld, and the BCGEA has been denied bargaining rights.

Boat Fall Kills Tot

TERRACE (CP)—Four-year-old Kelly Taylor was killed Monday when pinned beneath a boat being constructed in a neighbor's garage.

Two airmen who recently were baptized in the sect are under arrest for refusing to wear their uniforms. The RAF is flying home two other young bandsmen to give their parents a chance to talk them out of joining the sect.

Air ministry officials said they understood about 10 members of the band, based at Singapore's Changi air base, have been converted.

Toronto, New York Both Show Losses

Losses were registered on both the Toronto and New York stock markets today. Light trading was the order.

In late trading at Toronto, Ford of Canada took a severe drop-off four points at 121 to lead industrials lower. Dominion Stores were off 1 1/2 at 60 1/2, and Dominion Fries, Mexican Light and Dominion Glass all lost a point. The decline on Wall Street affected most major groupings, although utilities gave ground grudgingly and many of those issues were unchanged. Reporting lower third-quarter earnings, Westinghouse Electric dropped a full point.

AT TORONTO on the winning side, Bank of Montreal and Royal Bank both gained 1/2 at 5 1/2 and 6 1/2, and Howarth Smith improved 1/2 at 36 1/2. McIntyre-Porcupine took a strong lead among golds, up 1/2 at 25 1/2, while Falconbridge led mines down with a drop of 1/2 at 33 1/2.

GOLD PRICE HITS HIGH AT LONDON

LONDON (Reuters) — The price of gold in London today jumped to $35.50 an ounce, the highest price since the reopening of the London gold market in 1954 and a record premium over the official U.S. selling price of $35.0350.

Market men did not know where the demand was coming from — whether from central banks or private sources.

Canadian Ports Handle More Freight

OTTAWA (CP) — The volume of freight handled at Canadian ports increased 12.3 per cent in the first half of 1960.

The bureau of statistics placed the January-June total of 65,014,700 tons, as against 57,900,800 tons in the first half of 1959.

In June the volume rose 5.9 per cent to 20,439,000 tons from 19,297,400 in June last year.

Vessel arrivals and departures climbed in the six months to 125,535 from 115,752. The registered net tonnage rose to 130,424,900 from 117,103,800.

Loadings and unloadings in the foreign services increased in the January-June period to 35,029,000 tons from 31,520,700 a year earlier. Coastal freight climbed to 29,984,800 tons from 26,380,000.

Greatest volume of coastwise shipping was in pulpwood, wheat and oil. Decreases in wheat, iron and coal were offset largely by increases in pulpwood, logs and oils.

In June, the port of Vancouver handled 1,242,600 tons of freight compared with 1,203,200 in June, 1959.

Labor Gets Warning On Wages

VANCOUVER (CP) — A B.C. manufacturer said Monday labor must accept wage restraints on hard-pressed industry and accept their share of responsibility for expansion.

Harvey McDiarmid, chairman of the B.C. division, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, told the western division, Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy convention the province's future expansion depends on a healthy secondary industry.

He urged Canadian manufacturers to "clean up their own back yards" in order to help improve the competitive position of Canada's secondary industry.

Mr. McDiarmid said primary production cannot absorb manpower. Even with the development of B.C.'s last resources, hydro power and oil, he said, "these fields will not give us employment.

Industry must be willing to get together and combine manufacturing facilities, he said, following changes in combines legislation.

Mr. McDiarmid advocated better management techniques, an increase in advanced mechanization and automation and a willingness to enter new fields and explore new markets.

Railway Income Shows Sharp Drop

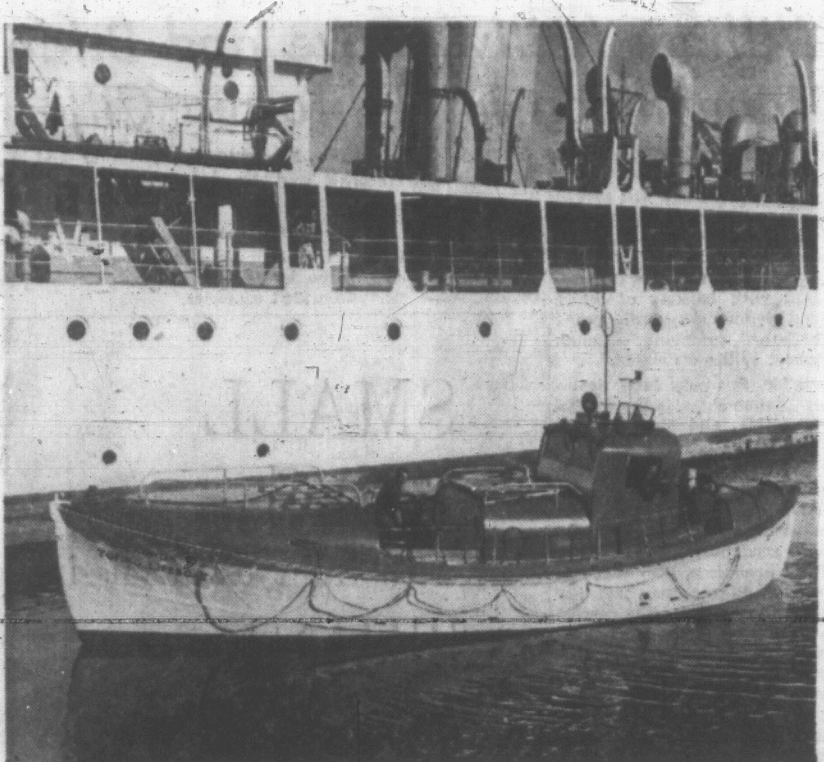

OTTAWA (CP) — Net operating income for Canadian railways in July was almost $4,000,000 lower than in July, 1959, the bureau of statistics has reported.

If said net income dropped to $3,495,000 in July, compared with $7,435,000 a year earlier. Operating revenues fell 9.1 per cent to $97,859,000 from $107,684,890.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Export demand for Canadian flax and feed commodities was quiet today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as most prices followed a hesitant trend.		CHICAGO (API) — Grains were steady to easier in the futures market today.
Flax trade appeared moderate with some buying for United States accounts. Prices had occasional easy tones, with declines due to lack of aggressive commercial demand.		A pickup in export demand prompted buying of wheat futures around the close, although volume was not heavy. Profit-taking and liquidation by longs tended to balance the trade, with price changes amounting to small fractions.
Oats and barley trade displayed easiness in domestic business. The rye market followed a similar pattern. Feed grain prices moved narrowly.		(By James Richardson & Sons)
Buying was hesitant. Larger movements of grain from the Lakehead to eastern ports were a factor.
Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat all were in ¼ from Monday.

HERE AND THERE . . . With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Don't drink more than one glass of Captain Discovery's Delight! I know because I've tried it.

Tourist Commissioner Bill Hawkins and his committee of swashbuckling seafarers invited me to join them in selecting the prize cocktail from several dozen submitted in the Captain Discovery contest.

We unanimously (hic) awarded the first prize to E. Edward (Ted) Fugler of 928 Foul Bay Road for this simple yet powerful recipe:

One part lemon juice, one part cognac, two parts light rum, two parts gin. Shake well with fine ice.

It's so uncomplicated I can't understand why it packs such a wallop. My only criticism . . . there's too much lemon in it!

Best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. George Chapman of 1588 North Dairy Road, Victoria, today celebrating their Diamond Wedding anniversary at their son's home in Edmonton, Alta.

They came here from England more than 50 years ago.

Congratulations to Lieutenant-Commander Garfield Dixon, RCN.

With the appointment of Major-General George Pearkes, VC, "Gar" enters the service of his fifth lieutenant-governor of British Columbia.

He was first appointed to Government House in 1946.

Mrs. E. M. Cowdery of Richmond, Surrey, England, is returning home this Friday after spending five months with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Polard, at 2154 Fernside, Gordon Head.

No—she isn't flying.

"There's far too much rushing about these days," says vivacious white-haired Mrs. Cowdery. "I'm going by train and boat for a change."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The botany section of Victoria Natural History Society will hold a meeting in the Provincial Museum at 8 to 10 p.m. P. J. Croft of the B.C. Power Commission will give an illustrated talk on wild flowers and their allies.

Fines totalling $275 and $12 costs were assessed in Colwood RCMP court Monday against William Alexander Rosemus, 352 Wishart.

He pleaded guilty to charges of impaired driving, for which he was fined $200, and driving while his licence was under suspension, $75.

Dominion archivist and national librarian Dr. William Kaye Lamb will address a public meeting Thursday at 8.15 p.m. in the music room of the Public Library.

He will speak about "Canada's National Library," under auspices of Friends of the Victoria Public Library.

Dr. Lamb was formerly B.C. archivist and librarian.

Eric Van Allen, Vancouver, will address the Victoria chapter, Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants, on the subject of "Business Systems."

The address will be accompanied by a film on the subject.

Almost 4,000 adults have enrolled in fall classes operated by Greater Victoria School Board's night division—up 10 per cent from last year.

A night school spokesman Monday predicted that the additional winter term enrolments in January will be higher than last year to set a new record. Total enrolment in 1959 was 5,200.

The Air Force Association of Vancouver Island will meet on Wednesday at 8.15 p.m. in the officers' mess at RCAP Headquarters, Quadra.

Sqdn. Ldr. D. B. Ascott, commanding officer No. 2455 Sqdn. (Aux.), will give an account of the squadron's history during its nine years of existence here. The squadron is due to be disbanded.

Street sale of Remembrance Day poppies will be held Saturday, Nov. 5.

About 60 radiological technicians will gather at Qualicum Beach Friday and Saturday for the annual meeting of the B.C. Division, Canadian Society of Radiological Technicians.

The president, Robert Hall of Victoria, will preside.

Among speakers will be Howard Ward, Victoria. His subject will be "Radiation Accidents."

The Sesame Zuumma Lodge, No. 131, Ladies of the Orient, will meet in the Independent Order of Foresters Hall, Douglas Street, tonight at 7.15. A social will follow the business session.

The Victoria firm of A. J. Barry Ltd. has submitted low tender for construction of a forced main and gravity outfall for the Chilliwack sewer system.

The company's bid of $89,624 was lowest of 11 submitted, ranging up to as high as $245,000.

Sea cadets of Shawnigan Lake School, winners of this summer's sunset ceremony observances for smartness and efficiency, will receive the Victoria Chapter of Commodore shield at 4.15 p.m. Wednesday at Bay Street Armory.

Presentation will be made by Col. L. W. Johnson, 25 Militia Group commander.

There will be an honor guard on hand, a color party and the band; in all comprising 75 boys aged 14 to 17.

Members of RCSC Cougar, the Shawnigan boys captured the top award after only one appearance at sunset observances in front of the Legislative Buildings here this year.

CIVIC VOTE WORKS STARTS

Electoral machinery will be put into motion Thursday at City Hall as preparations begin for the annual civic election only seven weeks away.

Four part-time workers will begin the job of bringing this year's voters list up to date.

Nominations—for four aldermanic and two school board trustee vacancies—will close Dec. 1 and a week later, Dec. 8, electors will make their choice.

Runaway Car Bowls Over Young Girls

A driverless car bowled two young girls into hospital with leg injuries when it rolled backwards across a sidewalk at 12.12 p.m. Monday.

Vivian Smith, 13, 2526 Bridge, and Gurmee Munsha, 14, 560 John, went to St. Joseph's Hospital for attention after they were hit in front of 2818 Rose.

The girls were walking on the west side of Rose when a car, owned by Wilhelmina Zaalberg, 2823 Rose, rolled from where it was parked on the east side of the street, crossed Rose and hit the girls, throwing Vivian into the yard at 2818 as it broke about eight feet of fence, property of Andrew Gray.

MISSED TURN

At 3.05 a.m. today, Joyce Wiseman, 33, 1660 Island Highway, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with a cut lip, face abrasions and shock after the car she drove went over a curb at Fountain Circle.

It had been driven north on Government when the woman missed a right turn into the circle.

'ROOM FOR ALL' Bring Your Own Soapbox And Open Up

Soapbox orators are getting into a lather over who will be the first to "perform" at Speakers' Corner in Beacon Hill Park.

City council has given permission for public speaking in a section of the park, as requested by the Socialist Party of Canada. The "little Hyde Park plain" allows anyone to expound on a subject of his choice to the birds, bees and any passer-by who cares to stop.

GO AHEAD

No permission is required from the city for individual orations. Anyone can go out to the deer-pen section of the park at any time and set up his soapbox.

Nevertheless two notices have been received at City Hall from parties who want to be the first to perform.

One is the Socialist Party which lobbied for the Speakers' Corner, and the other is W. A. (Bill) Scott, second-hand store operator and self-appointed champion of crackpots.

Both want to be first to go to their public next Sunday in Speakers' Corner.

"WE GOT IT"

The Socialists are unhappy with Scott trying to "steal their stuff."

Said 77-year-old Christopher Luff, secretary-treasurer of the party: "What right has he to ask the city that he be the first speaker? We fought for it. He did not do a thing to establish Speakers' Corner."

The city's reply to the strife, through parks administrator Herbert Warren, was: "There's plenty of room for all. The Speakers' Corner area covers five acres."

Corner plan is on a one-year trial basis.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Thomas John Irvine, Work Point, and Max Paine, 454 Fraser, $25 each for violation of driver's licence restriction.

Nathaniel French, 749 Broughton, previously fined for impaired driving, prohibited from driving of one month.

Mayor Jolts Edgelow On Insurance Claim

The scrappy B.C. Agricultural Association which recently claimed the city had done it out of $65,000 insurance money from fire-damaged buildings, got a jolt today.

"I have news for them," said Mayor Percy Scurrah, and it turned out to be bad.

The BCAA, headed by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, claimed it should have received the insurance settlement when the buildings it leased at the fair were destroyed during the Second World War. The city used the settlement to help build the Memorial Arena but Ald. Edgelow said it should have been held in trust for the association.

ACTED LEGALLY

A search of city records began and this morning the mayor produced a letter dated Nov. 26, 1947, which he said proved the city had acted legally in taking the insurance money.

The letter was written by assistant deputy attorney-general H. A. Maclean.

The provincial government was involved because it had given the city a $45,000 grant towards construction of some of the fair buildings on condition that they were leased exclusively to the agricultural association.

PAID PREMIUMS

Mr. Maclean's search of the records showed the city had built the structures, owned the land and the buildings, paid the fire insurance and leased the buildings to the association.

One of the lease conditions was that damage or destruction of the buildings by fire would nullify the agreement.

"Under the circumstances above related," Mr. Maclean wrote, "it appears to me that the City of Victoria is the unconditional owner of the proceeds of the insurance policy and that the Agricultural Society has no claim thereon."

Fingerprint Key Point In City Trial

A fingerprint of Grant Shaver, no fixed address, was found on a laundromat coin box where it would not have been if the box had been in its proper position in the laundry machine, Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie told an Assize court jury today.

Shaver is accused of breaking, entering and theft at the Sparkle Bright Laundrette, 2584 Quadra, at about 4 a.m. July 12 this year.

About $90 in coins was taken from the machines and from a cigarette vending machine on the premises.

EYEWITNESS

First witness, Edward Warburton who runs a bakeshop at 2631 Quadra, said he was an eyewitness to some of the occurrences.

He saw a trio of men near the laundrette, and watched them. Two went inside the unattended establishment and one stood outside, "looking around."

He saw one man take the coin box out of the cigarette machine.

At this point he telephoned police.

He saw the trio walk away from the laundry establishment and enter a frame building nearby.

Police were on hand within five minutes and found Shaver prosecutor described as "a on the premises of what the bootlegging joint."

The coin boxes were also taken.

Trial is continuing.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What is Japan's population today? A.K.L.

A. Close to 93,500,000 persons.

Q. How many riding horses are there in the Greater Victoria area and on Vancouver Island? N.P.

A. There are about 1,300 riding horses on the Island of which half are located in the Victoria area. The Vancouver area, incidentally, has close to 5,000 riding horses.

Day of Abandon Cost Offender $126 in Fines

Last July 8 was non-conform day for Donald John Penner, 713 Kings, who pleaded guilty in city police court today to three charges bringing $126 in fines.

Court was told that at 5 p.m. last July 8, Penner was caught jaywalking on Fort between Broad and Douglas. He was fined a nominal $1.

Then at 7.30 p.m. Penner was stopped for careless driving where his car swerved from lane to lane, narrowly missing other autos.

For this he was fined $75 and his driver's licence was suspended.

But when the officer who laid the driving charge approached Penner's car he found the accused drinking from a bottle of beer, ending in a $50 fine for drinking in public.

Penner, who spent the rest of the summer in Calgary and was not available for court until now, was allowed time to pay all but the latter fine.

BUT BELOW VANCOUVER

City Wages Top South Interior

Victoria's wages are better than the southern interior of B.C., but below the average levels of the north and metropolitan Vancouver, a survey shows.

Almost all occupations polled by the Provincial Bureau of Economics got higher pay in the northern centres than in Greater Victoria, except for some laboring jobs.

The annual survey covers the year ending last July. In that time average wages went up between $5 and $10 a month.

661 FIRMS

The survey covers 661 firms in B.C. employing 90,000 persons. In Victoria 95 firms were surveyed, with 2,036 office employees and 7,331 in plants.

Highest pay listed in Victoria is $610 monthly for civil engineers.

Office managers, classified as professional clerks, get $4.50 an hour, which includes Prince George, Prince Rupert, Quesnel and Terrace.

Victoria clerks get an average $224, $230 in the north, while stenographers get $225 here, $247 in the north and $251 in Vancouver.

There's a big difference for bookkeepers, who get $305 here, $345 in the north and $362 in Vancouver.

DRAFTSMEN DOWN

Draftsmen here get $391, $426 in the north and $422 in Vancouver.

A Victoria janitor gets $245 a month, his Prince George counterpart $280. The job is worth $291 in Vancouver.

Hourly rates for many jobs are province-wide, such as carpenters, who get $2.74. However, auto mechanics get $2.27 here, $2.35 in the north and $2.44 in Vancouver.

Victoria truck drivers get from $1.84 to $2.57, depending on what type of equipment they drive.

The range is $1.87 to $2.43 in the north.

Construction laborers are better paid in Victoria than anywhere. They get $2.09 an hour here, $2.05 in Vancouver, and only $1.76 in the north areas.

He's Helping . . . Are You?

TODAY'S COMMUNITY CHEST PERSONALITY is Owen Karn, 1871 St. Ann Street, who is president of the Silver Threads Service and a past board member of the Community Chest. He took part in the pilot campaign that preceded this year's biggest ever drive for $350,000. Mr. Karn is manager of the Excelsior Life Insurance Co. and is vice-president of the Life Insurance Managers' Association. He is also a supervisor of Oak Bay United Church Sunday School, president of the Oak Bay Junior Girls' Softball Association and a member of Victoria Curling Club.

Sued Strikers Invoke Bill of Rights

OTTAWA (CP)—The right of free expression as guaranteed in the new Bill of Rights was pleaded today in the Supreme Court of Canada on behalf of a group of Saint John, N.B., workers sued for picketing.

They appealed against damages awarded by the lower courts to Foundation Maritime Limited, which claims that illegal picketing forced a 2½-month delay in completion of a federal government wharf in Saint John. Judgment on the appeal was reserved.

Alberta Man Jailed for 30 Years

EDMONTON (CP)—Daniel Wesley Forrester, 24, was sentenced today by Mr. Justice C. Farthing in Alberta Supreme Court to 30 years in penitentiary for rape. He was found not guilty on a charge involving an unnatural act.

Scotland Yard Gets Soccer Scandal

LONDON (AP)—A list of 20 soccer players was drawn up today to be handed over to Scotland Yard in a report on alleged bribing and fixing of English League matches.

Leaders of the Football Association and the English Football League conferred on reported confessions by some star players that they accepted bribes up to £500 ($1,400) to throw games.

Lions Urge Draft to Aid Weak Teams

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions said today they have proposed a plan to help weaker teams in the Western Interprovincial Football Union by permitting the bottom-placed clubs to draw on surplus talent from the stronger teams.

A club spokesman said today the plan has been well received by WIFU delegates, who met in Calgary Sunday.

RAF BANDSMEN 'CONVERTED'

New 'Witnesses'
Shed Uniforms

LONDON (AP)—Royal Air Force chiefs today ordered an inquiry into the conversion of members of an RAF band stationed in Singapore to the pacifist Jehovah's Witnesses sect.

Two airmen who recently were baptized in the sect are under arrest for refusing to wear their uniforms. The RAF is flying home two other young bandsmen to give their parents a chance to talk them out of joining the sect.

Air ministry officials said they understood about 10 members of the band, based at Singapore's Changi air base, have been converted.

A man and a woman are believed responsible for sparking the wave of religious fervor among the bandsmen. Singapore police are investigating the couple.

Clarinetists James Hacker and Colin Frechter, both 22, were to have been baptized Sunday. The RAF whisked them out of Singapore when cables from their parents failed to deter them. They were due to arrive in England today.

If their parents can persuade them against becoming Jehovah's Witnesses, they will be sent back to Singapore to talk to their comrades.

'THE SWEET
DECEIVER' IS UPON US

Don't let the balmy weather of the past few days deceive you into believing we are in for a mild winter.

This Indian summer is a "sweet deceiver," a lull before a storm, a dream which is in for a rude awakening.

That's the opinion of totem pole carver Chief Mungo Martin, one of the few remaining B.C. Indians steeped in mystical tribal beliefs.

The chief, working at Thunderbird Park today, paused for a moment to foretell what Victorians are in for in the next few months.

And what he has to say won't please tourist commissioner William Hawkins who plans this winter to advertise on the Prairies southern Vancouver Island as the "Mediterranean area of Canada."

The chief predicted a miserable winter. "The cold, dry north wind will descend upon the Island," he said. "It will bring hardship."

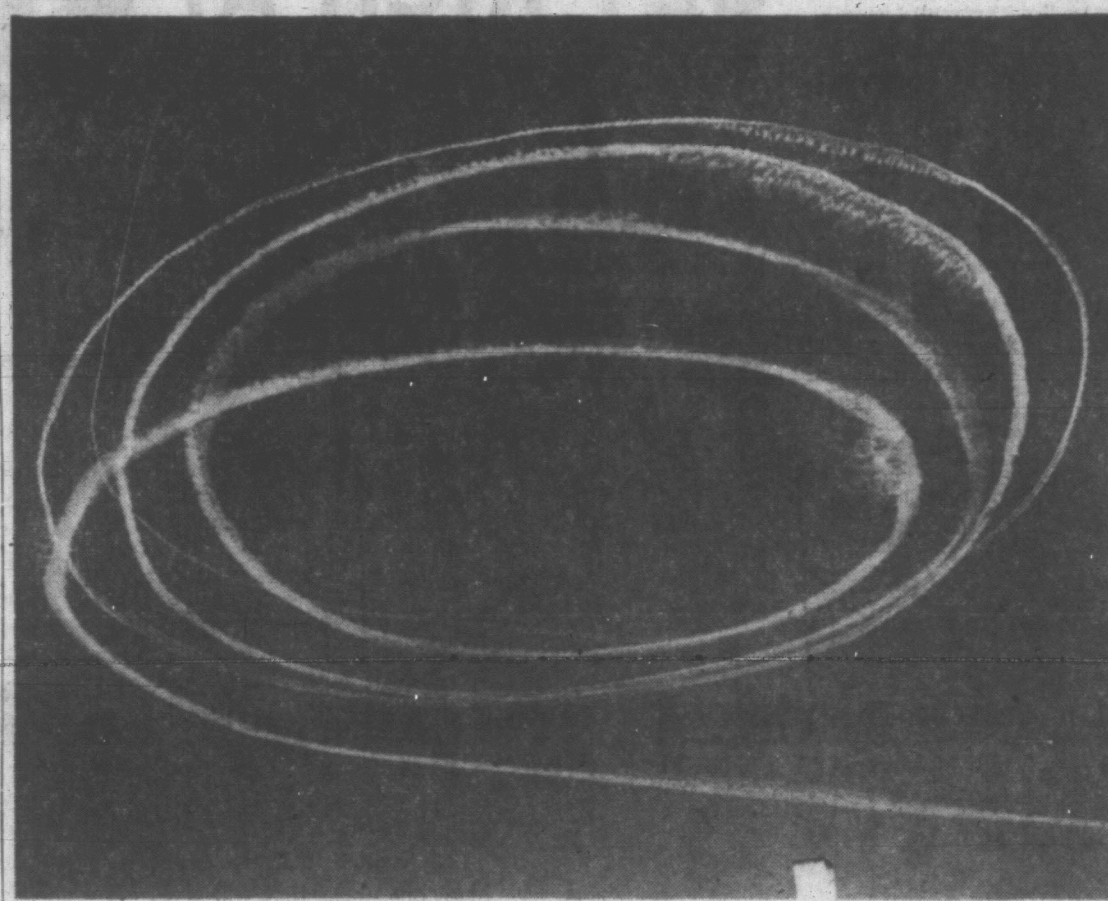

Meanwhile

TORONTO (CP)—Cold arctic air moving southward across the Prairies has brought snow to parts of Manitoba and the first major cold outbreak of the season to most of Canada.

The cold air is expected to settle over Ontario by Wednesday night bringing killing frost to southern sections of the province.

In Manitoba, gusty northerly winds blowing across relatively warm lakes caused snowflurries in the south while in the north a continuous snowfall already has left two inches of snow on the ground.

Temperatures were expected to reach below freezing in northern Manitoba today and not much more than 40 degrees across the southern prairies, the coldest day this fall.

$3 MILLION STOLEN
IN JEWELS, STOCKS

Hollywood Home
Ransacked

WEST HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Three million dollars worth of jewelry and Coca-Cola stocks were stolen from the home of retired New York stockbroker Raoul Fernandez, 50, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Officers said the theft Monday night included one necklace with a 50 carat centre stone valued at $500,000.

Included in the jewelry was a pearl necklace worth $25,000; six bracelets worth a total of $53,000; 20 watches worth $40,000; five gold cigarette cases worth $10,000; one gold cigarette case with a brown diamond—believed to be one of three such stones in the world—worth $20,000; his late wife's wedding ring, valued at $10,000 and a charm bracelet worth $8,000.

Two million dollars worth of non-negotiable Coca-Cola stock also were stolen by thieves who hauled away the loot in a 100-pound safe disguised as a cabinet and kept in Fernandez's bedroom closet.

Fernandez told officers the jewelry and stock belonged to his wife, the former Catherine Chandler, who died four years ago. She was the heir to the Coca-Cola fortune, Fernandez said.

"I'm insured, but I'm not fully covered," Fernandez said. "I only have a small floater policy."

De Gaulle Wins
Vital Test Vote

PARIS (UPI)—The government today won the first round in a test of strength between Parliament and President Charles de Gaulle's two-year-old "strong-man" regime.

The National Assembly rejected, by 264 votes to 213, a motion calling for it to refuse discussion of the government's project for formation of an independent French nuclear striking force.

The margin, however, was far narrower than the government had hoped for. More than 50 deputies abstained from voting and a large section of the Independent (conservative) party deserted the government on the issue.

The result was a shock for the government. Political experts predicted that Prime Minister Michel Debre almost certainly would be forced to use the weapon of a confidence vote to win the final showdown expected in the early hours of Thursday.

The test vote was taken after former premier Paul Reynaud told the National Assembly he believes President Eisenhower will invite France to share American nuclear secrets after the presidential election Nov. 8.

FINANCIAL TROUBLE
French parliamentary leaders warned, however, that the government may be unable to afford President Charles de Gaulle's plan for a billion-dollar independent nuclear striking force.

Speaking in a critical debate on the government's plan, Reynaud said "there are good chances that we shall be admitted soon to the nuclear club."

"In my opinion," he said, "the decision will be taken by President Eisenhower after the Nov. 8 presidential election."

The Assembly first heard reports by its finance, defence and foreign affairs committees on the bill to give France a striking force equipped with French-built atomic bombers, rockets, nuclear bombs and warheads, rocket-firing warships and submarines.

STAY WITH WEST
Finance committee spokesman Henri Dorey asked the government pointedly: "Are not the objectives of this project perhaps greater than our financial abilities?"

Joel le Theule, reporting for the defence committee, said his group favored a nuclear striking force. But he added that it doubted whether creation of such a force would allow France to maintain its present military commitments, particularly in Algeria.

Maurice Schumann, speaking for the foreign affairs committee, said his group—although split on the striking force project—agreed solidly on the need for France to remain loyal to the western alliance.

LOVE LETTERS IN THE SKY?

High-flying jet aircraft attracted wide attention over Victoria between 1 and 2 p.m. Monday, making majestic circles marked by contrails which hung lazily high in the sky. Aircraft was thought to be interceptor from U.S. Air Force base near Tacoma.

Quipped an RCAF officer: "Perhaps he was tying love knots for his girl friend." Clear contrail pattern could be seen as far away as B.C. lower mainland. USAF jets are in air over this area constantly as part of duties with NORAD.

U.K. WARNED
BY RUSSIA ON SUB BASES

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio warned today that an agreement giving Polaris-equipped U.S. nuclear submarines base facilities in Scotland is "fraught with the most serious consequences for Britain."

Under negotiations in Washington for several months, the agreement is expected to be announced in Parliament next month.

Liberal Chief
Coming Here
Next Month

Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson will visit Victoria in late November.

B.C. party leader Roy Perreault is coming to the west coast for the annual meeting of the party Nov. 25.

Mr. Perreault, just returned from talks with Mr. Pearson in Regina, said Mr. Pearson has set a tentative date of Nov. 25 for a B.C. visit but this could be changed if a fall session of parliament is called around that time.

Mr. Perreault said it is also expected that Mr. Pearson would speak in the Victoria area. A byelection may be held in Esquimalt-Saanich, neighboring Victoria, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of former Defence Minister George Pearkes, now B.C. lieutenant-governor.

CUT TIES WITH LABOR

Civil Servants
'Blackmailed'

Eleven thousand B.C. civil servants will vote in mid-December on whether with labor which may tinge them politically.

Executive of the BCGEA decided Monday to temporarily cast loose from the B.C. Federation of Labor pending a referendum among its members.

The move today was branded the result of government "blackmail" through threatening the organization of the BCGEA.

BCGEA officials admitted their decision was influenced by the government halting dues checkoff on civil servants' pay.

The government move followed charges of implicit political connections between the BCGEA and the federation.

Both those groups have supported the CCF and BCGEA members.

'A Deplorable Example to Others'

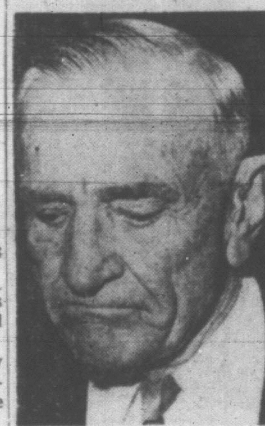

Mr. O'Connor said the federation had passed a resolution pledging BCGEA dues will not be used for political action. The BCGEA constitution bars political activity.

Mr. O'Neal said the government's "squeeze play" of cancelling dues checkoff had forced the civil servants to bend.

"It is a deplorable example to other employers in the province as far as employer-employee relations are concerned," he said.

Victoria Labor Council president Robert C. Barrie said he is confident the BCGEA members will vote to stay affiliated to the senior labor organizations.

U.S. 'Spy' Confessed
To Go Free

VIENNA (AP)—A young American teacher, convicted by a Soviet court as a spy, said today he pleaded guilty to espionage charges because the Russians told him he would get a light sentence.

Mark L. Kaminsky, 28, of near Niles, Mich., was sentenced Sept. 16 to seven years' imprisonment. The sentence was suspended and he was expelled from the Soviet Union, where he had been touring with a companion.

Kaminsky said he was not badly treated and his trial was carefully managed by the Russians.

"They gave me a lawyer," he said. "He was not of much assistance, but he cheered me up. He advised me to confess to the charge wholeheartedly and tell court I felt very remorseful. He stressed the part about 'remorseful' time and again."

Neutral Chairman
On Arms Urged

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—External Affairs Minister Howard Green, driving for a renewal of disarmament talks, said today Canada will propose a neutral chairman for the 10-nation East-West committee whose work collapsed in June after a Communist walkout.

The Canadian foreign chief sketched Canada's proposal in an interview during a luncheon recess of the 99-nation United Nations political committee which he will address later today or Wednesday.

Green said he advocates the appointment of two additional committees to work with the committee of 10, which includes five members from the East and five from the West.

DISTINCTIVE DUTIES
One committee would engage in technical studies and could include members of the committee of 10, as well as other countries. The other would be a "watch-dog" committee appointed by the 99-member UN disarmament commission but would not include members of the committee of 10.

Its role would be to give advice and review progress by the negotiating body.

In the brief interview, Green suggested Switzerland as a country which could well supply a chairman for the negotiating committee.

U.S., Russia Agree

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union agreed today that the United Nations political committee should plunge immediately into a major disarmament debate in an attempt to break the long-standing East-West deadlock.

3 Congolese Women Slain

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Three native women were reported murdered today in a new outbreak of violence in the chaotic Congo. The violence coincided with mounting criticism by Congolese leaders against army Col. Joseph Mobutu's "strong-man" control of this unstable regime. The outbreak of terrorism prompted Mayor Daniel Kanza to impose a dusk-to-dawn curfew over the city.

B.C. Crash Kills 2

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Two persons were killed or drowned early today when a truck plunged into the Nicola River five miles east of Spences Bridge.

fair, he said, because the Labor Relations Act allows checkoff for recognized unions—that doesn't include BCGEA. The move is "a sign of more restrictive labor legislation to come that will affect every labor union in the province. The man who started it all by his resignation because of the political 'tinge'—Lawrence G. Huck, former Victoria branch president—today would not comment.

His successor, John Gowan, said a meeting Monday night of the local members "felt the executive did the right thing." "The branch welcomes the right opportunity of having a referendum," he said.

Government officials were unavailable for comment. Mr. O'Connor defended the BCGEA executive's decision, although he vehemently denied any political action or connection.

"The government is obviously of the view that affiliation in itself is partisan political action by mere association," he said.

"It is our duty to preserve the association as an economic unit."

Abolishing the payroll check off of dues "is a very definite threat to the structure of the organization." It would be "a tremendous job" for the BCGEA to collect dues itself.

Mr. O'Connor said two committees will be set up to represent each side of the case of affiliation. Their reports will appear in the Provincial, the

ENGINEER KILLED BY CAR

A 35-year-old Dutch engineer off the British freighter Amberton berthed at Port Alberni, was killed Monday night when struck by a car driven by a juvenile on Stamp Avenue near the mill.

The victim's name is being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin. RCMP said the man was in the middle of the street when hit and was killed immediately. The accident took place at about 10:30 p.m. Inquest opened at 11 a.m. today to view the body and was then adjourned to next week.
